Epidemiology of Arterial Blood Pressure H. Kesteloot, J.V. Joosens, 2012-12-06 Hypertension is a major health problem and contrary to ischemic heart disease which occurs only in Western countries its distribution is almost universal It is this universality that has prompted us to gather in this book data on arterial blood pressure obtained in different parts of the world Moreover cerebrovascular mortality which is the commonest cause of death from hypertension is decreasing in most Western countries and in Japan and the reasons for this are still far from clear A major problem in comparing blood pressure values from different centers is the standardization of the measurement Complete standardization will never be achieved if one takes into account the numerous factors that may influence blood pressure in epidemiological studies Whether blood pressures are measured by doctors or by technicians are recorded at home in the working place or in a hospital in sitting standing or supine position and is taken during the same examination all of these whether a blood sample factors can influence blood pressure measurement But meals time of day blood pressure being higher in the evening heart rate cuff size stethoscope used digit preference month of year temperature etc can equally influence the measurement Home reading of arterial blood pressure at standardized times is probably the best answer to all of these problems and has been used with gratifying results in a comparative study between Belgium and Korea Mayo Clinic Cardiology Mayo Clinic,2013 Organized to present a comprehensive overview of the field of cardiology in an accessible reader friendly format that can be covered in about 12 months this new edition contains roughly 50% new material the cardiac pharmacology section has been completely reworked cardiovascular trials have been included and the entire book has been updated to reflect current practice guidelines and recent developments The book is peppered throughout with numerous tables and clinical pearls that aid the student as well as the teacher to remain focused
