Deterrence in the Second Nuclear Age Keith B. Payne, 2021-10-21 Keith Payne begins by asking Did we really learn how to deter predictably and reliably during the Cold War He answers cautiously in the negative pointing out that we know only that our policies toward the Soviet Union did not fail What we can be more certain of in Payne s view is that such policies will almost assuredly fail in the Second Nuclear Age a period in which direct nuclear threat between superpowers has been replaced by threats posed by regional rogue powers newly armed with chemical biological or nuclear weapons The fundamental problem with deterrence theory is that it posits a rational hence predictable opponent History frequently demonstrates the opposite Payne argues that as the one remaining superpower the United States needs to be more flexible in its approach to regional powers Macmillan, Kennedy and the Cuban Missile Crisis L.
