Ulrich Berner, Christoph Bochinger

De Houding Van Den Mensch Tegenover De Natuur:

European Traditions in the Study of Religion in Africa Ulrich Berner, Christoph Bochinger, 2004 This volume comprises case studies of five centuries of European encounters with and imaginations of Africa encompassing her triple religious heritage African Traditional Religions Christianity and Islam The introductory chapters outline the challenges and present overviews some of them also analyze the early accounts of European travelers and missionaries The following contributions examine the lasting legacy of the European Enlightenment in employing an ambivalent language of human equality and universalism while in actual fact consigning Africa to an inferior position It has been difficult for western scholars to divorce themselves wholly from the perceptions thus established However there have been quite different approaches This is indicated in the papers discussing the role and impact of influential European academics scholars of religion theologians historians and social scientists during the colonial and postcolonial period Other contributions examine specific institutional centers of African religious studies in Europe The concluding chapters critically assess European approaches and their use for the study of religion in Africa from an African perspective Environmental Science Theory W.T. de Groot, 1992-10-22 Having no competitive works this unique publication presents a single structure for the analysis explanation and solution of environmental problems regardless of their location nature or scale In this problem oriented approach a coherent framework interconnects the study of facts and values environmental systems social causes and ethical premises Counterbalancing current biases the author emphasizes the fundamental normative economic and social scientific aspects of truly interdisciplinary environmental science For instance the normative side of environmental problems are often neglected resulting in policy designs and evaluations containing inefficient mixtures of sophisticated models and poorly grounded normative premises this is the first major study to enrich the field with more normative consistency and groundedness It is also the first text to consistently identify the social causes of environmental problems rather than focusing on the physical scientific aspects and thus design deeper and more effective policies Furthermore a tinge of post modern thinking runs throughout the book with special care being taken however to constantly keep in view the practical relevance of theory for problem oriented work The book will be of interest to environmental scientists and managers wishing to improve the consistency and depth of their work to social scientists and geographers wishing to connect their discipline to the environmental problems field and to general scientists interested in the connections between philosophy and practice
