Censorship In Islamic Societies:

Censorship in Islamic Societies Trevor Mostyn, 2002 This concise history of Islamic censorship examines the turbulent question of freedom of expression in Islamic societies The book ranges from the ancient Arabians to Muhammad's charter offering freedom of expression to Muslims to modern history when control of communication shifted to the secularists Trevor Mostyn's incisive book culminates in an analysis of the current political direction of censorship and the control of freedom of expression

A History of Censorship in Islamic Societies Trevor Mostyn, 1999

The Sciences in Islamicate Societies in Context Sonja Brentjes, 2023-11-30 This Variorum volume reprints ten papers on contextual elements of the so called ancient sciences in Islamicate societies between the thirteenth and the seventeenth centuries They address four major themes the ancient sciences in educational institutions courtly patronage of science the role of the astral and other sciences in the Mamluk sultanate and narratives about knowledge The main arguments are directed against the then dominant historiographical claims about the exclusion of the ancient sciences from the madrasa and cognate educational institutes the suppression of philosophy and other ancient sciences in Damascus after 1229 the limited role of the new experts for timekeeping in the educational and professional exercise of this science and the marginal impact of astrology under Mamluk rule It is shown that the muwaqqits timekeepers were important teachers at madrasas and Sufi convents that Mamluk officers sought out astrologers for counselling and that narratives about knowledge reveal important information about scholarly debates and beliefs Colophons and dedications are used to prove that courtly patronage for the ancient sciences continued uninterrupted until the end of the seventeenth century Furthermore these papers refute the idea of a continued and strong conflict between the ancient and modern sciences showing rather shifting alliances between various of them and their regrouping in the classifications of the entire disciplinary edifice These papers are suited for graduate teaching in the history of science and the intellectual cultural and social history of the Middle East and for all readers interested in the study of the contexts of the sciences

Censorship Derek Jones, 2001-12-01 Censorship A World Encyclopedia presents a comprehensive view of censorship from Ancient Egypt to those modern societies that claim to have abolished the practice For each country in the world the history of censorship is described and placed in context and the media censored are examined art cyberspace literature music the press popular culture radio television and the theatre not to mention the censorship of language the most fundamental censorship of all Also included are surveys of major controversies and chronicles of resistance Censorship will be an essential reference work for students of the many subjects touched by censorship and for all those who are interested in the history of and contemporary fate of freedom of expression

Islam and Popular Culture Karin van Nieuwkerk, Mark LeVine, Martin Stokes, 2016-04-12 Popular culture serves as a fresh and revealing window on contemporary developments in the Muslim world because it is a site where many important and controversial issues are explored and debated Aesthetic expression has become intertwined with politics and religion due to the uprisings of the Arab Spring while at the same time Islamist authorities are showing increasingly accommodating and populist attitudes toward popular culture. Not simply a westernizing or secularizing force as some have asserted, popular culture now plays a growing role in defining what it means to be Muslim. With well structured chapters that explain key concepts clearly, Islam and Popular Culture addresses new trends and developments that merge popular arts and Islam. Its eighteen case studies by eminent scholars cover a wide range of topics such as lifestyle, dress, revolutionary street theater, graffiti, popular music, poetry, television, drama, visual culture, and dance throughout the Muslim world from Indonesia, Africa, and the Middle East to Europe. The first comprehensive overview of this important subject, Islam and Popular Culture offers essential new ways of understanding the diverse religious discourses and pious ethics expressed in popular art productions, the cultural politics of states and movements, and the global flows of popular culture in the Muslim world.

Islam and Cultural Change in Papua New Guinea Scott Flower, 2016-08-12. Scholars of religion and policy makers may be surprised at the changes occurring on the second largest island of the world that straddles one of the most Christianised and least Christianised areas of the world. This book provides an accurate and deeper understanding of the nature of Islam in Papua New Guinea and determines the causes and processes of recent growth in the country's Muslim population. Combining ethnographic, sociological, and historical approaches to understanding Islam's growth in Papua New Guinea, the book uses extensive fieldwork, interviews, and archival records to look at the establishment, institutionalization, and growth of Islam in a country that is predominantly Christian. It analyses the causes and processes of conversion and presents a new analytical approach that could be used as a basis for analysing Islamic conversions in other parts of the world. Presenting an interdisciplinary approach to the study of Islamic conversion through the examination of the causes and process of Islamic conversion in Papua New Guinea, the book is of interest to students and scholars of Asian Religion, Islamic Studies, and Cultural Studies.

Muslims and the New Media Göran Larsson, 2016-04-22. Scholars from an extensive range of academic disciplines have focused on Islam in cyberspace and the media, but there are few historical studies that have outlined how Muslim ulama have discussed and debated the introduction and impact of these new media. Muslims and the New Media explores how the introduction of the latest information and communication technologies are mirroring changes and developments within society as well as the Middle East's relationship to the West. Examining how reformist and conservative Muslim ulama have discussed the printing press, photography, the broadcasting media, radio, and television, the cinema, the telephone, and the Internet, case studies provide a contextual background to the historical social and cultural situations that have influenced theological discussions focusing on how the ulama have debated the usefulness or dangers of the information and communication media. By including both historical and contemporary examples, this book exposes historical trajectories as well as different and often contested positions in the Islamic debate about the new media.
