Creating A Forestry For The 21st Century The Science Of Ecosystem Management:

Creating a Forestry for the 21st Century Kathryn A. Kohm, Jerry F. Franklin, 1997 Over the past decade a sea change has occurred in the field of forestry A vastly increased understanding of how ecological systems function has transformed the science from one focused on simplifying systems producing wood and managing at the stand level to one concerned with understanding and managing complexity providing a wide range of ecological goods and services and managing across broad landscapes Creating a Forestry for the 21st Century is an authoritative and multidisciplinary examination of the current state of forestry and its relation to the emergent field of ecosystem management Drawing upon the expertise of top professionals in the field it provides an up to date synthesis of principles of ecosystem management and their implications for forest policy Leading scientists including Malcolm Hunter Jr Bruce G Marcot James K Agee Thomas R Crow Robert J Naiman John C Gordon R W Behan Steven L Yaffee and many others examine topics that are central to the future of forestry new understandings of ecological processes and principles from stand structure and function to disturbance processes and the movement of organisms across landscapes challenges to long held assumptions the rationale for clearcutting the wisdom of short rotations the exclusion of fire traditional tools in light of expanded goals for forest landscapes managing at larger spatial scales including practical information and ideas for managing large landscapes over long time periods the economic organizational and political issues that are critical to implementing successful ecosystem management and developing institutions to transform knowledge into action Featuring a 16 page center section with color photographs that illustrate some of the best on the ground examples of ecosystem management from around the world Creating a Forestry for the 21st Century is the definitive text on managing ecosystems It provides a compelling case for thinking creatively beyond the bounds of traditional forest resource management and will be essential reading for students scientists working in state federal and private research institutions public and private forest managers staff members of environmental conservation organizations and policymakers

Silvicultural Research and the Evolution of Forest Practices in the Douglas-fir Region ,2007 Silvicultural practices in the Douglas fir region evolved through a combination of formal research observation and practical experience of forest managers and silviculturists and changing economic and social factors This process began more than a century ago and still continues It has had a great influence on the economic well being of the region and on the present characteristics of the regions forests This long history is unknown to most of the public and much of it is unfamiliar to many natural resource specialists outside and even within the field of silviculture We trace the history of how we got where we are today and the contribution of silvicultural research to the evolution of forest practices We give special attention to the large body of information developed in the first half of the past century that is becoming increasingly unfamiliar to both operational foresters and perhaps more importantly to those engaged in forestry research We also discuss some current trends in silviculture and silviculture related research Integrated Restoration of Forested Ecosystems to Achieve Multiresource Benefits, 2008 A primary mission of the U S Department of Agriculture Forest Service is multiple resource management and one of the emerging themes is forest restoration The National Silviculture Workshop a biennial event co sponsored by the Forest Service was held May 7 10 2007 in Ketchikan Alaska with the theme of Integrated Restoration of Forested Ecosystems to Achieve Multiresource Benefits This proceedings presents a compilation of state of the art silvicultural research and forestry management papers that demonstrates integrated restoration to yield multiple resource benefits These papers highlight national perspectives on ecosystem services forest restoration and climate change and regional perspectives on forest restoration and silvicultural practices to achieve multiple resource benefits from researchers and forest practitioners working in a broad array of forest types in the United States A Year in Review for the Pacific Northwest Research Station Pacific Northwest Research Station (Portland, Or.), 1999 Flathead National Forest (N.F.), Sheppard Creek Post-fire Project, 2008 Forest Landscape Ecology Ajith H. Perera, Lisa J. Buse, Thomas Crow, 2007-03-14 Landscape ecology has generated a wealth of knowledge that could enhance forest policy but little of this knowledge has found its way into practice This the first book to introduce landscape ecologists to the discipline of knowledge transfer The book considers knowledge transfer in general critically examines aspects that are unique to forest landscape ecology and reviews case studies of successful applications for policy developers and forest managers in North America
