Kiley,2012-06-28 Is meticulous Matthew also mathematically so Why does Matthew alone in the canon discuss guards at Jesus tomb For popular storytellers in the early church is the serpent of the Garden the unseen catalyst in the murder of John the Baptist Why do almost three dozen words beginning with the Hebrew letter ayin have analogues in Luke s infancy narratives Why do Mary s meditations there cohere with Psalm 19 John s Jesus describes himself as Way Truth and Life Does this bear any relation to the single Latin term veritas St Ignatius of Antioch in his letter to the Ephesians talks about the song of the Body of Christ and people as stringed instruments Does John know that idea What does the Roman legend of the emergence of bees from the carcass of a slain ox have to do with the early church In these close readings of the Gospels the reader will rediscover the fascination of listening to some of the original resonance of the New Testament text with Hebrew Greek and Latin culture Attentive to detail and persistent in asking questions about the larger picture this scholarship fulfills the promise inherent in research The Painted Word Phil Cousineau,2012-09-11 To untangle the knot of interlocking meanings of these painted words logophile and mythologist Phil Cousineau begins each fascinating word entry with his own brief definition He then fills it in with a tint of etymology and a smattering of quotes that show how the word is used ending with a list of companion words The words themselves range from commonplace like biscuit a twice baked cake for Roman soldiers to loanwords including chaparral from the Basque shepherds who came to the

American West words from myths such as hector metamorphosis words like silly which evolved holy to goofy in a mere thousand years and words well worthy of revival such as carrytale a wandering storyteller Whether old fangled or brand new all the words included in The Painted Word possess an ineffable quality that makes them luminous

Recording Russia Gabriella Safran, 2022-11-15 Recording Russia examines scenes of listening to the people across a variety of texts by Russian writers and European travelers to Russia Gabriella Safran challenges readings of these works that essentialize Russia as a singular place where communication between the classes is consistently fraught arguing instead that as in the West the sense of separation or connection between intellectuals and those they interviewed or observed is as much about technology and performance as politics and emotions Nineteenth century writers belonged to a distinctive media generation using new communication technologies not bells but mechanically produced paper cataloguing systems telegraphy and stenography Russian writers and European observers of Russia in this era described themselves and their characters as trying hard to listen to and record the laboring and emerging middle classes They depicted scenes of listening as contests where one listener bests another at times the contest is between two sides of the same person They sometimes described Russia as an ideal testing ground for listening because of its extreme cold and silence As the mid century generation witnessed the social changes of the 1860s and 1870s their listening scenes revealed increasing skepticism about the idea that anyone could accurately identify or record the unadulterated voice of the people Bringing together intellectual history and literary analysis and drawing on ideas from linguistic anthropology and sound and media studies Recording Russia looks at how writers folklorists and linguists such as Turgenev Dostoevsky and Vladimir Dahl

as well as foreign visitors thought about the possibilities and meanings of listening to and repeating other people's words
