Digital Humanities Pedagogy Brett D. Hirsch, 2015 Academic institutions are starting to recognize the growing public interest in digital humanities research and there is an increasing demand from students for formal training in its methods Despite the pressure on practitioners to develop innovative courses scholarship in this area has tended to focus on research methods theories and results rather than critical pedagogy and the actual practice of teaching The essays in this collection offer a timely intervention in digital humanities scholarship bringing together established and emerging scholars from a variety of humanities disciplines across the world The first section offers views on the practical realities of teaching digital humanities at undergraduate and graduate levels presenting case studies and snapshots of the authors experiences alongside models for future courses and reflections on pedagogical successes and failures The next section proposes strategies for teaching foundational digital humanities methods across a variety of scholarly disciplines and the book concludes with wider debates about the place of digital humanities in the academy from the field's cultural assumptions and social obligations to its political visions. Digital Humanities pedagogy broadens the ways in which both scholars and practitioners can think about this emerging discipline ensuring its ongoing development, vitality and long-term sustainability.

The Companion to Digital Humanities in Practice Constance Crompton, Laura Estill, Richard J. Lane, Ray Siemens, 2025-11-21. The Companion to Digital Humanities in Practice offers international perspectives on how we teach and research in and with digital humanities today. Building on the foundation of earlier publications that focused on practice in the field, this Companion provides a significant treatment of pertinent issues and contexts extending breadth and depth as well as reach in terms of geographical diversity of topics and contributors. Divided into four sections, each with a high-level practice-oriented focus, the volume covers data tools and techniques, communication, dissemination and engagement, and pedagogical practices. Contributors to the volume include both established and emerging scholars. Foregrounding and critically reviewing the emergence and development of standards-based communities of practice, the Companion provides an overview of core competencies, conceptualized case studies and links to further reading, training materials and exercises. The Companion to Digital Humanities in Practice will appeal to academics, researchers and postgraduate students working in DH, literary studies, history and the humanities more broadly. It should also be of interest to professionals working in DH and galleries, libraries, archives and museums.

Practices of Digital Humanities in India Maya Dodd, Nirmala Menon, 2024-09-06. This book represents examples of innovations in digital humanities, DH efforts across India while theorizing disparate challenges and its negotiations. It examines DH projects that have spanned private and public efforts, institutionally sanctioned lab work and crowd-sourced programmes of public significance and shows how collectively they demonstrate the potential paths of DH in India. The essays in the volume highlight the two fundamental challenges for DH: acts of curation of new scales and the creation of platforms that can assist in the collation and analysis of these digital archives and changes in learning behaviour. They examine the transformation of the university and the opening up of new relationships between knowledge and audience in concomitant spaces of scholarship such as libraries, archives and museums. The volume brings to the fore citizen efforts to document, record and preserve as well as create new avenues of study and forge networks of scholarship that look very different from those of traditional academia. It also foregrounds the challenges of location and addresses the questions of how DH should be taught in India and how to build digital infrastructures. A go-to guide for DH efforts in India, this book will be an essential text for courses on digital humanities, library and information sciences and the future of experiential learning.
