The Oxford Handbook of Governance and Limited Statehood Thomas Risse, Tanja A. Börzel, Anke Draude, 2018 Unpacking the major debates this Oxford Handbook brings together leading authors of the field to provide a state of the art guide to governance in areas of limited statehood where state authorities lack the capacity to implement and enforce central decision and or to uphold the monopoly over the means of violence While areas of limited statehood can be found everywhere not just in the global South they are neither ungoverned nor ungovernable Rather a variety of actors maintain public order and safety as well as provide public goods and services While external state governors and their interventions in the global South have received special scholarly attention various non state actors from NGOs to business to violent armed groups have emerged that also engage in governance This evidence holds for diverse policy fields and historical cases The Handbook gives a comprehensive picture of the varieties of governance in areas of limited statehood from interdisciplinary perspectives including political science geography history law and economics 29 chapters review the academic scholarship and explore the conditions of effective and legitimate governance in areas of limited statehood as well as its implications for world politics in the twenty first century The authors examine theoretical and methodological approaches as well as historical and spatial dimensions of areas of limited statehood and deal with the various governors as well as their modes of governance They cover a variety of issue areas and explore the implications for the international legal order for normative theory and for policies toward areas of limited statehood Transnational Food Security Emily Webster, Ankita Gupta, Ruth Ambros, 2020-06-09 Transnational Food Security addresses food security from an international relations political economy and legal perspective analysing the relationship between food security and the environment and climate change trade finance and contracts and the intersection between food and human rights The topic of food concerns one of the most basic and profound aspects of human survival Universal and equal access to food is at the same time ridden with problems of power inequality distribution and implicated in old and new geopolitical conflicts As such food and food security are central to conditions of poverty and hunger development and modernisation transitional justice and rule of law reform around the world As a problem of critique and scholarly inquiry food prompts an inter disciplinary assessment of the nature of food security in the modern world The contributors to this book take us deep into the complexity of food and illustrate the challenges of adequately understanding and approaching questions of food security and food sovereignty in a globally interconnected world Transnational Food Security will be of great interest to scholars of international relations political economy and transnational law The chapters were originally published as a special issue of Transnational Legal Theory Journal

Climate Change and Food Security in Asia Pacific Md Saidul Islam, Edson Kieu, 2021-04-01 Using an interdisciplinary approach this book evaluates the complex nexus between climate change and regional food security in Asia Pacific Feeding the planet puts a lot of stress on the environment The fundamental challenges we are facing today include how to grow more from less in a sustainable manner how to optimize the entire food value chain from field to fork to reduce the carbon footprint protect the environment and support biological diversity cause less water pollution and soil erosion raise levels of nutrition improve agricultural productivity better the lives of rural populations and contribute to the growth of the world economy With a robust multi site study in Southeast Asia Pacific Island Forum and South Asia this book examines the regional initiatives on the current state of and the future prospects for mitigations and resilience regarding climate change and food security vis vis other regions of the world International Trade and Food Security Michael Ewing-Chow, Melanie Vilarasau Slade, 2016-01-29 Food security is one of the greatest challenges of our time The food price crisis of 2008 exposed the vulnerabilities of the global food system Governments across Asia acerbated the crisis by imposing export restrictions based on a policy of self sufficiency This book assesses whether self sufficiency is an adequate response to the food security challenges we face Pricing volatility drives isolationism at a time when climate change and increasingly uncertain weather patterns make it difficult for any single nation to guarantee adequate food production for itself Through a collection of commissioned studies which draw upon the experience of leading experts and scholars in trade investment law economics and food policy this book analyses the impact of this trend on the most essential crop in the Asian region rice It suggests that food security policy should be reconceptualised from the national to the regional and even the global level It also provides its own proposals as to how this new paradigm of collective food security should be understood and developed The book calls for a new conversation in the region acknowledging that the challenges we face are global and the solutions must be found in collective action This state of the art study will appeal to lawyers economists and political scientists as well as food security specialists by providing expert analyses and enlightening solutions for the future

Transforming Food and Agricultural Policy Carsten Daugbjerg, Peter Feindt, 2019-12-18 Western democratic welfare states often featured sectoral governance arrangements where governments negotiated policy with sectoral elites based on shared ideas and exclusive institutional arrangements Food and agriculture policy is widely considered an extreme case of compartmentalized and exceptionalist policy making where sector specific policy ideas and institutions provide privileged access for sectoral interest groups and generate policies that benefit their members In the last two decades policy exceptionalism has been under pressure from internationalization of policy making increasing interlinkage of policy areas and trends towards self regulation liberalization and performance based policies This book introduces the concept of post exceptionalism to characterize an incomplete transformation of exceptionalist policies and politics which preserves significant exceptionalist features Post exceptional constellations of ideas institutions interests and policies can be complementary and stable or tense and unstable Food and agriculture policy serves as an example to illustrate an incomplete transformation towards a more open contested and networked politics Chapters on agricultural policy making in the European Union and the United States the politics of food in Germany and the United Kingdom transnational organic standard setting and global food security debates demonstrate how postexceptionalism helps to understand the co existence of transformation and path dependency in contemporary public policies The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of European Public Policy

Global Food Security Governance Jessica Duncan, 2015-03-24 In 2007 8 world food prices spiked and global economic crisis set in leaving hundreds of millions of people unable to access adequate food The international reaction was swift In a bid for leadership the 123 member countries of the United Nations Committee on World Food Security CFS adopted a series of reforms with the aim of becoming the foremost international inclusive and intergovernmental platform for food security Central to the reform was the inclusion of participants including civil society and the private sector across all activities of the Committee Drawing on data collected from policy documents interviews and participant observation this book examines the re organization and functioning of a UN Committee that is coming to be known as a best practice in global governance Framed by key challenges that plague global governance the impact and implication of increased civil society engagement are examined by tracing policy negotiations within the CFS in particular policy roundtables on smallholder sensitive investment and food price volatility and negotiations on the Voluntary Guidelines on the Responsible Governance of Tenure of Land Fisheries and Forests in the Context of National Food Security and the Global Strategic Framework for Food Security and Nutrition The author shows that through their participation in the Committee civil society actors are influencing policy outcomes Yet analysis also reveals that the CFS is being undermined by other actors seeking to gain and maintain influence at the global level By way of this analysis this book provides empirically informed insights into increased participation in global governance processes

Grey Zones in International Economic Law and Global Governance Daniel Drache, Lesley A. Jacobs, 2018-11-14 Since the 2008 economic meltdown market driven globalization has posed new challenges for governments This collection introduces the innovative concept of grey zones of global governance where international rules are bent or ignored These zones are significant contested spaces for state policy and market behaviour to interact with respect to trade the environment food security and investment Powerful incentives exist in the global economy for states to harmonize their policies through trade and investment agreements But grey zones both promote uniformity in many areas of public life and facilitate diverse forms of capitalism in market societies They enable governments to balance national and global economic benefits as they advance their core interests At a time of growing nationalist sentiment Grey Zones in International Economic Law and Global Governance explores creative local engagement with international economic law and offers a bold new way to understand public concerns about international trade and investment food security green energy subsidies and anti dumping actions

New Voices and New Perspectives in International Economic Law John D. Haskell, Akbar Rasulov, 2019-12-10 This book brings together a series of contributions by international legal scholars that explore a range of subjects and themes in the field of international economic law and global economic governance through a variety of methodological and theoretical lenses It introduces the reader to a number of different ways of constructing and approaching the study of international economic law The book deals with a series of different theoretical agendas and perspectives ranging from the more traditional empirical legal studies to the more alternative language theory and it expands the scope of substantive discussion and thematic coverage beyond the usual suspects of international trade international investment and international finance While the volume still gives due recognition to the traditional theoretical project of international economic law it invites the reader to extend the scope of disciplinary imagination to other less commonly acknowledged questions of global economic governance such as food security monetary unions and international economic coercion In addition to historically focused and critical perspectives the volume also includes a number of programmatic and forward looking explorations which makes it appealing to a broad audience with a variety of contrasting interests Therefore the volume is of particular interest to academics and postgraduate students in the fields of international law international relations international political economy and international history Security and International Law Mary E Footer, Julia Schmidt, Nigel D White, Lydia Davies-Bright, 2016-06-16 Of the many challenges that society faces today possibly none is more acute than the security of ordinary citizens when faced with a variety of natural or man made disasters arising from climate and geological catastrophes including the depletion of natural resources environmental degradation food shortages terrorism breaches of personal security and human security or even the global economic crisis States continue to be faced with a range of security issues arising from contested territorial spaces military and maritime security and security threats relating to energy infrastructure and the delivery of essential services The theme of the book encompasses issues of human political military socio economic environmental and energy security and raises two main questions To what extent can international law address the types of natural and man made security risks and challenges that threaten our livelihood or very existence in the twenty first century Where does international law fall short in meeting the problems that arise in different situations of insecurity and how should such shortcomings be addressed
