

A person wearing a white cowboy hat and a dark jacket is seen from behind, sitting on a rock and looking out over a vast, arid desert landscape. The terrain is sandy with sparse, low-lying vegetation. In the distance, there are rolling hills under a clear blue sky. A horizontal teal band is positioned across the middle of the image, behind the subtitle.

Conservation For A New Generation Redefining Natural Resources Management:

Conservation for a New Generation Richard L. Knight, Courtney White, 2009 Conservation for a New Generation highlights the dynamic state of how natural resources management is being practiced in the United States today as it transitions from top down programs and federal mandates to a largely bottom up approach that involves a broad range of stakeholders working together to achieve common goals The book considers the implications of those changes for future conservation efforts and offers a conceptual blueprint for effective conservation that can guide students and practitioners both now and into the future

Human Dimensions of Ecological Restoration Dave Egan, Evan E. Hjerpe, Jesse Abrams, 2012-09-26 When it comes to implementing successful ecological restoration projects the social political economic and cultural dimensions are often as important as and sometimes more important than technical or biophysical knowledge Human Dimensions of Ecological Restoration takes an interdisciplinary look at the myriad human aspects of ecological restoration In twenty six chapters written by experts from around the world it provides practical and theoretical information analysis models and guidelines for optimizing human involvement in restoration projects Six categories of social activities are examined collaboration between land manager and stakeholders ecological economics volunteerism and community based restoration environmental education ecocultural and artistic practices policy and politics For each category the book offers an introductory theoretical chapter followed by multiple case studies each of which focuses on a particular aspect of the category and provides a perspective from within a unique social political cultural setting Human Dimensions of Ecological Restoration delves into the often neglected aspects of ecological restoration that ultimately make the difference between projects that are successfully executed and maintained with the support of informed engaged citizens and those that are unable to advance past the conceptual stage due to misunderstandings or apathy The lessons contained will be valuable to restoration veterans and greenhorns alike scholars and students in a range of fields and individuals who care about restoring their local lands and waters

Fogel,J.B. Ruhl,Patricia Wouters,2010-11-30 The Law and Politics of Sustainability explores efforts made to address pressing environmental concerns through legislation conventions directives treaties and protocols Articles explain the mechanics of environmental law the concepts that shape sustainable development case studies and rulings that have set precedents approaches to sustainable development taken by legal systems around the world and more Experts and scholars in the field raise provocative questions about the effectiveness of international law versus national law in protecting the environment and about the effect of current laws on future generations They analyze the successes and shortcomings of present legal instruments corporate and public policies social movements and conceptual strategies offering readers a preview of the steps necessary to develop laws and policies that will promote genuine sustainability

Political Ecology of Tourism Mary Mostafanezhad, Roger Norum, Eric J. Shelton, Anna Thompson-Carr, 2016-01-08 Why has political ecology been assigned so little attention in tourism studies despite its broad and critical interrogation of environment and politics As the first full length treatment of a political ecology of tourism the collection addresses this lacuna and calls for the further establishment of this emerging interdisciplinary subfield Drawing on recent trends in geography anthropology and environmental and tourism studies Political Ecology of Tourism Communities Power and the Environment employs a political ecology approach to the analysis of tourism through three interrelated themes Communities and Power Conservation and Control and Development and Conflict While geographically broad in scope with chapters that span Central and South America to Africa and South Southeast and East Asia to Europe and Greenland the collection illustrates how tourism related environmental challenges are shared across prodigious geographical distances while also attending to the nuanced ways they materialize in local contexts and therefore demand the historically situated place based and multi scalar approach of political ecology This collection advances our understanding of the role of political economic and environmental concerns in tourism practice It offers readers a political ecology framework from which to address tourism related issues and themes such as development identity politics environmental subjectivities environmental degradation land and resources conflict and indigenous ecologies Finally the collection is bookended by a pair of essays from two of the most distinguished scholars working in the subfield Rosaleen Duffy foreword and James Igoe afterword This collection will be valuable reading for scholars and practitioners alike who share a critical interest in the intersection of tourism politics and the environment
