Charlotte Karen Aminadra,2012-05-01 When Charlotte Lucas married Mr Collins she did not love him but had at least secured her future However what price must she pay for that future Mr Collins is submissive in the extreme to his patroness and his constant simpering fawning and deference to the overbearing and manipulative Lady Catherine de Bourgh is sure to try the patience of a saint or at least of Charlotte As Charlotte becomes part of Hunsford society she discovers she is not the only one who has been forced to submit to the controlling and often hurtful hand of Lady Catherine She feels trapped and realises her need for love and affection She is not as content as she once thought she would be The easiest thing to do would be to maintain the peace and do as she is told But as Charlotte witnesses the misery around her due to her inimitable neighbour she must decide to remain as she is or to begin a chain of events that will change not only her life but also the lives of those around her in the village of Hunsford forever But after all doesn't every girl deserve a happy ending The young lady without Pride or Prejudice Peggy Tulip, 2019-02-05 Charlotte Collins wife of the Parson and mistress of Hunsford Parsonage for not yet one year was a very happy woman indeed who occasionally pinched herself at disbelief at the sudden extraordinary change in circumstances that had made her so She admired Rosings a large handsome dwelling some hundreds of yards down the lane from the Parsonage but only the exterior She considered everything within it too large and too grand for human comfort Since she went infrequently she demonstrated a proper respect and then returned gratefully to the beloved Parsonage Since she saw little to admire and much to criticise she simply reminded herself frequently that Lady Catherine against all expectation and logic had bestowed a valuable Benefice upon an unknown untried priest Thus at a remove giving Charlotte the home and life that she loved and cherished Her gratitude for that was beyond expressing 7th
