Cognitive Science Literature And The Arts Cognitive Science Literature And The Arts:

Cognitive Science, Literature, and the Arts Patrick Colm Hogan, 2012-11-12 The rise cognitive science has been one of the most important intellectual developments of recent years stimulating new approaches to everything from philosophy to film studies This is an introduction to what cognitive science has to offer the humanities and particularly the study of literature Hogan suggests how the human brain works and makes us feel in response to literature He walks the reader through all of the major theories of cognitive science that are important for the humanities in order to understand the production and reception of literature Oral Poetics and Cognitive Science Mihailo Antovic, Cristóbal Pagán

Cánovas, 2016-08-22 What can oral poetic traditions teach us about language and the human mind Oral Poetics has produced insights relevant not only for the study of traditional poetry but also for our general understanding of language and cognition formulaic style as a product of rehearsed improvisation the thematic structuring of traditional narratives or the poetic use of features from everyday speech among many others The cognitive sciences have developed frameworks that are crucial for research on oral poetics such as construction grammar or conversation analysis The key for connecting the two disciplines is their common focus on usage and performance This collection of papers explores how some of the latest research on language and cognition can contribute to advances in oral studies At the same time it shows how research on verbal art in its natural oral medium can lead to new insights in semantics pragmatics or multimodal communication The ultimate goal is to pave the way towards a Cognitive Oral Poetics a new interdisciplinary field for the study of oral poetry as a window to the mind Beauty and Sublimity Patrick Colm Hogan, 2016-03-11 Recent decades have witnessed an explosion in neuroscientific and related research treating aesthetic response This book integrates this research with insights from philosophical aesthetics to propose new answers to longstanding questions about beauty and sublimity Hogan begins by distinguishing what we respond to as beautiful from what we count socially as beautiful He goes on to examine the former in terms of information processing specifically prototype approximation and non habitual pattern recognition and emotional involvement especially of the endogenous reward and attachment systems In the course of the book Hogan examines such issues as how universal principles of aesthetic response may be reconciled with individual idiosyncrasy how it is possible to argue rationally over aesthetic response and what role personal beauty and sublimity might play in the definition of art To treat these issues the book considers works by Woolf Wharton Shakespeare Arthur Miller Beethoven Matisse and Kiran Rao among others 440 Great Colleges for Top Students , Cognitive Literary Science Michael Burke, Emily

Troscianko, 2017 This book brings together researchers with cognitive scientific and literary backgrounds to present innovative research in all three variations on the possible interactions between literary studies and cognitive science The tripartite structure of the volume reflects a more ambitious conception of what cognitive approaches to literature are and could be than is usually encountered and thus aims both to map out and to advance the field The first section corresponds to what most people think of as cognitive poetics or cognitive literary studies the study of literature by literary scholars drawing on cognitive scientific methods findings and or debates to yield insights into literature The second section demonstrates that literary scholars needn't only make use of cognitive science to study literature but can also in a reciprocally interdisciplinary manner use a cognitively informed perspective on literature to offer benefits back to the cognitive sciences Finally the third section literature in cognitive science showcases some of the ways in which literature can be a stimulating object of study and a fertile testing ground for theories and models not only to literary scholars but also to cognitive scientists who here engage with some key questions in cognitive literary studies with the benefit of their in depth scientific knowledge and training

The Aesthetic Illusion in Literature and the Arts Tomáš Koblížek, 2017-09-21 The notion of aesthetic illusion relates to a number of art forms and media Defined as a pleasurable mental state that emerges during the reception of texts and artefacts it amounts to the reader's or viewer's sense of having entered the represented world while at the same time keeping a distance from it Aesthetic Illusion in Literature and the Arts is an in depth study of the main questions surrounding this experience of art as reality Beginning with an introduction providing historical background to modern discussions of illusion it deals with a wide range of theoretical issues The collection explores the nature and function of the aesthetic illusion as well as the role of affect and emotion the implications of aesthetic illusion for the theory of fiction the variable forms of aesthetic illusion and its relationship to other components of aesthetic response Aesthetic Illusion in Literature and the Arts brings together a team of scholars from philosophy literature and art and presents an interdisciplinary examination of a concept lying at the heart of contemporary aesthetics

How Literature Plays with the Brain Paul B. Armstrong, 2013-09-15 An original interdisciplinary study positioned at the intersection of literary theory and neuroscience Literature matters says Paul B Armstrong for what it reveals about human experience and the very different perspective of neuroscience on how the brain works is part of that story In How Literature Plays with the Brain Armstrong examines the parallels between certain features of literary experience and functions of the brain His central argument is that literature plays with the brain through experiences of harmony and dissonance which set in motion oppositions that are fundamental to the neurobiology of mental functioning These oppositions negotiate basic tensions in the operation of the brain between the drive for pattern synthesis and constancy and the need for flexibility adaptability and openness to change The challenge Armstrong argues is to account for the ability of readers to find incommensurable meanings in the same text for example or to take pleasure in art that is harmonious or dissonant symmetrical or distorted unified or discontinuous and disruptive How Literature Plays with the Brain is the first book to use the resources of neuroscience and phenomenology to analyze aesthetic experience For the neuroscientific community the study suggests that different areas of research the neurobiology of vision and reading the brain body interactions underlying emotions may be connected to a variety of aesthetic and literary phenomena For critics and students of literature the study engages fundamental questions within the humanities What is aesthetic experience What happens when we read a literary work How does the interpretation of literature relate to other ways of knowing

Literary Theory and Criticism Patricia Waugh, 2006 This volume offers a comprehensive account of modern literary criticism presenting the field as part of an ongoing historical and intellectual tradition Featuring thirty nine specially commissioned chapters from an international team of esteemed contributors it fills a large gap in the market by combining the accessibility of single authored selections with a wide range of critical perspectives The volume is divided into four parts Part One covers the key philosophical and aesthetic origins of literary theory while Part Two discusses the foundational movements and thinkers in the first half of the twentieth century Part Three offers introductory overviews of the most important movements and thinkers in modern literary theory and Part Four looks at emergent trends and future directions

Film, Art, and the Third Culture Murray Smith, 2017-03-24 In the mid 1950s C P Snow began his campaign against the two cultures the debilitating divide as he saw it between traditional literary intellectual culture and the culture of the sciences urging in its place a third culture which would draw upon and integrate the resources of disciplines spanning the natural and social sciences the arts and the humanities Murray Smith argues that with the ever increasing influence of evolutionary theory and neuroscience and the pervasive presence of digital technologies Snow's challenge is more relevant than ever Working out how the scientific and everyday images of the world hang together is no simple matter In Film Art and the Third Culture Smith explores this question in relation to the art technology and science of film in particular and to the world of the arts and aesthetic activity more generally In the first part of his book Smith explores the general strategies and principles necessary to build a third cultural or naturalized approach to film and art one that roots itself in an appreciation of scientific knowledge and method Smith then goes on to focus on the role of emotion in film and the other arts as an extended experiment in the third cultural integration of ideas on emotion spanning the arts humanities and sciences While acknowledging that not all of the questions we ask are scientific in nature Smith contends that we cannot disregard the insights wrought by taking a naturalized approach to the aesthetics of film and the other arts

Handbook of Empirical Literary Studies Donald Kuiken, Arthur M. career professionals while challenging active researchers to develop theoretical frameworks and empirical procedures that match the complexity of their research objectives
