Capturing Education Envisioning Building Colleges:

Capturing Education Paul Boyer, 2015 Capturing Education examines the emergence and growth of the first tribal colleges Based on extended interviews with more than a dozen founders long serving presidents and non Indian advocates it explores the motivations of early leaders It also describes how they overcame widespread assumptions that Indians did not need a college education or were not capable of running their own colleges This story rarely told is filled with moments of drama as leaders describe how they fought to gain funding and respect Against the odds the men and women featured in these pages demonstrate how a good idea when pursued with energy and idealism can gain support and succeed Book cover Without Destroying Ourselves John A. Goodwin, 2022-03 Without Destroying Ourselves is an intellectual history of Native activism seeking greater access to and control of higher education in the twentieth century John A Goodwin traces themes of Henry Roe Cloud s Ho Chunk vision for Native intellectual leadership and empowerment in the early 1900s to the later missions of tribal colleges and universities TCUs and education based self determination movements of the 1960s onward Vital to Cloud s work was the idea of how to build from Native identity and adapt without destroying that identity As the central themes of the movement for Native control in higher education developed over the course of several decades a variety of Native activists carried Cloud s vision forward Goodwin explores how Elizabeth Bender Cloud Ojibwe D Arcy McNickle Salish Kootenai Jack Forbes Powhatan Renap Delaware Lenape and others built on and contributed to this common thread of Native intellectual activism Goodwin demonstrates that Native activism for self determination was never snuffed out by the swing of the federal government s pendulum away from tribal governance and toward termination Moreover efforts for Native control in education remained a vital aspect of that activism Without Destroying Ourselves documents this period through the full accreditation of TCUs in the late 1970s and reinforces TCUs continuing relevance in confronting the unique needs and challenges of Native communities today Religion and the American University James W.

Fraser, 2025-07 This book is designed to tell the complex story of the changing place of religion in American higher education over the last 220 years Empowering Entrepreneurial Communities and Ecosystems Morgan R. Clevenger, Michael

W-P Fortunato, 2022-07-15 Entrepreneurial Communities and Ecosystems Case Study Insights aims to provide applied examples that embody the theories principles and processes that contribute to empowering everyday entrepreneurial communities and ecosystems Relying on a diversity of narratives from a wide range of entrepreneurial communities entrepreneurial ecosystems and organizations this book presents a collection of case studies that take the reader inside the minds of leaders who are working to empower entrepreneurs and build entrepreneurial ecosystems and entrepreneurial communities sometimes from scratch The book features research and stories from entrepreneurs development agencies entrepreneurial support and assistance organizations i e feeders and supports governments and involved citizens and local leaders in their quest to make their communities more entrepreneuring The book presents an analytic frame through which the case studies are cross analyzed providing meta guidelines for pursuing a broad range of strategies for supporting local and regional entrepreneurial action This research volume is equally useful as an undergraduate or graduate text on the sociology of entrepreneurs and entrepreneurship as it is a field guide for ecosystem builders policy makers nonprofits and entrepreneurship and social researchers worldwide Partnership Motives and Ethics in Corporate Investment in Higher Education Clevenger, Morgan R.,MacGregor, Cynthia J.,Sturm, Paul,2021-06-25 The roles that corporate social responsibility CSR and business support of democracy play in American higher education are infrequently discussed though very important There are many ethical issues that concern both corporate interests as well as higher education linking the two more than many would think It is necessary to understand the environment inter organizational relationships and documents holistically to observe the rich history pluralistic American societal issues and relevant milestones between corporate America and higher education Partnership Motives and Ethics in Corporate Investment in Higher Education provides comprehensive documentation of business and corporate entanglements with higher education This work discusses the historic journey of funding from business and U S corporate engagement in American higher education Covering topics such as academy business relationships philanthropic partnerships and transactional partnerships this work is essential for professors executives managers faculty fundraisers leaders in higher education researchers students and academicians with interests in CSR business ethics and higher education Ethnic Minority-Serving Institutions Weiyan Xiong,2020-10-28 This book presents a comparative study of the history and development of indigenous and ethnic higher education in the US and China The author focuses on institutions serving American Indians and Alaska Natives AIANs and Chinese Ethnic Minorities CEMs such as Tribal Colleges and Universities TCUs in the US and Ethnic Minority Serving Institutions EMSIs in China Chapters center voices within indigenous and ethnic education including experts senior administrators and faculty members as well as AIAN tribal leaders and activists These voices enrich the study and provide context to explore the issues and challenges surrounding ethnic and minority serving higher education institutions today Finally the author addresses strategies and practices for the future which will better serve AIAN and CEM students and communities Institutional Diversity in American Postsecondary Education Tiffany J. Davis,Shelley Price-Williams,Pietro A. Sasso,2024-07-01 The glossy and polished college videos view books and websites catered to the marketplace of students Some recruitment brochures often discuss famous alumni athletics championships and a vibrant student life Particularly at research universities marketing materials may even focus on entrepreneurs and medical discoveries These types of colleges along with others compromise the marketplace of higher education in which different types of colleges exist across a spectrum of missions institutional sagas and histories Within this marketplace is a bewildering and disorienting catalog of different institutional types and classifications This marketplace also exists within a conglomerate of rankings and ratings that are ordered by US News World Report and Petersons Such rankings are often connected to a larger quest for prestige and primarily facilitated by these private sector publications but are juxtaposed to the higher education industry created Carnegie Classification system. The Carnegie Classification system was created as an approach to differentiate the more than 4 000 institutions by size, mission and scope for research and policy analysis. However, this system is also integrated into broader hierarchies of accreditation and funding. However, the continued reclassification of the system in 2005, 2010 and the addition of new categories in 2018 such as doctoral professional has advanced to call attention to and emphasize the importance of the considerable institutional diversity of U S higher education. 2005 p 52. However, these typologies do not fully describe or conceptualize the organizational administrative culture or student experiences of each of these typologies. The rankings guides and the Carnegie Classification systems often overlook more nuanced institutional types such as faith based or works colleges. They also overlook the role and impact of Minority Serving Institutions (MSI). This lack of recognition often facilitates continued invisibility for different institutional types and the diverse multiple student populations they may educate and support. Therefore, this edited text seeks to expand and further the Carnegie Classification system typology and beyond the private sector rankings. This text is a response to a call for existential exploration as an attempt to critically revivify our understanding of the various institutional types and is inspired by the words of David Thorton Moore in which it might be heartening to see a cadre of faculty and critical scholars facilitate a form of discourse in which teachers and students conduct an unfettered investigation of social institutions, power relations and value commitment. In this text, the authors describe and problematize the various institutional types as defined by accreditation, Carnegie classification and private sector rankings.

Our People Believe in Education Cameron M. Shriver, The Future of Sustainability Education at North American Universities Naomi Krogman, 2023-02-10. This collection explores sustainability education in the North American academy. The authors advocate for a more integrated approach to teaching sustainability in order to help students address the most pressing problems of the world, embrace experimentation and foster more meaningful involvement with the communities in which universities are located. Throughout, they remain focussed on identifying opportunities for sustainability in higher education and suggesting specific strategies and tactics to achieve them. Recommendations include pedagogical and structural changes aimed at helping students understand the systems in which they can advance sustainability. This timely volume will be of interest to scholars, academic leaders, policy makers, societal partners in research and private sector leaders interested in advancing the sustainability agenda. Foreword by Thomas E Lovejoy. Contributors: Apryl Bergstrom, Christopher G Boone, Ann Dale, Thomas Dietz, Roger Epp, Allison F W Goebel, Kourosh Houshmand, Robert H Jones, Naomi Krogman, Shirley M Malcom, Robert E Megginson, Patricia E Ellie Perkins, Vicky J Sharpe, Toddi A Steelman. The SAGE Encyclopedia of Higher Education Miriam E. David, Marilyn J. Amey, 2020-05-21. Higher Education is in a state of ferment. People are seriously discussing whether the medieval ideal of the university as being excellent in all areas makes sense today, given the number of universities that we have in the world. Student fees are changing the orientation of students to the system. The high rate of non repayment of fees in the UK is provoking difficult questions about whether the current system of funding makes sense

There are disputes about the ratio of research to teaching and further discussions about the international delivery of courses
