Clueless In Academe How Schooling Obscures The Life Of The Mind:

Clueless in Academe Gerald Graff, 2008-10-01 Gerald Graff argues that our schools and colleges make the intellectual life seem more opaque narrowly specialized and beyond normal learning capacities than it is or needs to be Left clueless in the academic world many students view the life of the mind as a secret society for which only an elite few qualify In a refreshing departure from standard diatribes against academia Graff shows how academic unintelligibility is unwittingly reinforced not only by academic jargon and obscure writing but by the disconnection of the curriculum and the failure to exploit the many connections between academia and popular culture Finally Graff offers a wealth of practical suggestions for making the culture of ideas and arguments more accessible to students showing how students can enter the public debates that permeate their lives

Professing Literature Gerald Graff, 2024-05-31 Widely considered the standard history of the profession of literary studies Professing Literature unearths the long forgotten ideas and debates that created the literature department as we know it today In a readable and often amusing narrative Gerald Graff shows that the heated conflicts of our recent culture wars echo and often recycle controversies over how literature should be taught that began more than a century ago Updated with a new preface by the author that addresses many of the provocative arguments raised by its initial publication Professing Literature remains an essential history of literary pedagogy and a critical classic Graff's history is a pathbreaking investigation showing how our institutions shape literary thought and proposing how they might be changed

The Norton Anthology of Theory and Criticism Learning, Teaching, and Community Lucinda Pease-Alvarez, Sandra R. Schecter, 2006-04-21 This volume brings together established and new scholarly voices to explore how participatory and situated approaches to learning can contribute to educational innovation The contributors critical examinations of educational programming and engagements provide insights into how educators youth families and community members understand and enact their commitments to diversity and equitable access Collectively these essays complicate notions of community alerting readers to ways in which community can be constructed other than in geographical and ethnoracial terms as alliances and collaborations of individuals joining together to accomplish or negotiate shared agendas The focus on agency combined with social context a dialectic to which all of the authors speak enlarges and invigorates our sense of what is pedagogically possible in societies characterized by diversity and flux Part I Linking Pedagogy to Communities focuses on dynamic initiatives where practitioners collaborate with community members and other professionals as they acknowledge and build on the cultural linguistic and intellectual resources of ethnic minority students and their communities Part II Professional Learning for Diversity centers on the authors experiences in facilitating opportunities for working with prospective and practicing teachers to develop situated pedagogies highlighting both the challenges that emerge and the transformations that occur Part III Learning in Community and Community in Learning illustrates how educational innovation can extend beyond the realm of schools and classrooms by elucidating ways in which individuals construct learning venues in out of school settings Learning Teaching and Community Contributions of Situated and Participatory Approaches to Educational Innovation is a compelling and timely text ideally suited for courses focused on teacher education and development informal learning equity and education multilingual and multicultural education language and culture educational foundations and school reform educational restructuring and will be equally of interest to faculty researchers and professionals in these areas
