

KEY AND EXPLANATION

TEST ONE

p.7–10 PAPER 1 Part 1

Further practice and guidance (p.9–10)

Extract One

First paragraph: A = 4 B = 2 C = 1 D = 3

broad = wide/great

opinionated = expressing personal opinion

objective = based on facts and not personal opinions

impact = influence/effect

concern = involve/affect

first-hand knowledge = personal experience

Second paragraph: A = 4 B = 3 C = 1 D = 2

in person = to do something yourself

notification = announcement

restriction = limit

multiple = many are expected = are obliged

Extract Two

First paragraph: B the purpose of sirens is usually to alert people to an approaching emergency vehicle. In the text, the fillers are sirens that alert people to important information (of significance).

Second paragraph: 1d 3e 3b 4a 5f 6c

Extract Three

First paragraph: It refers to the option of communicating in Russian.

Second paragraph: They mean 'to be told about,' 'to be informed about something' and 'the expression of feelings of sadness./ the process of expressing great sadness because someone has died'. These phrases suggest that when the public are informed about the death of an animal species, they are very sad and consider this event to be very important news.

The use of However is used to show contrast. In this context, it suggests that the public reaction to animal extinction is very unlike their reaction to language extinction. In other words, the death of a language is not noticed and does not upset most people.

p.7–8 PAPER 1 Part 1 (Test)

1B 2A 3B 4D 5C 6A

p.11–12 PAPER 1 Part 2

7 C: The last sentence in C states the kakapo also has a unique breeding system. This is further explained in the next two sentences of the following text: Males gather at an arena to compete for females. After mating, the females raise their young alone. C also describes the unique features of the kakapo: its appearance, the noises it makes and the important fact that it can't fly. In the following paragraph, Don Merton says that these unique features/peculiarities have made the kakapo vulnerable, in other words, easy to attack.

8 G: In the paragraph above 8, we read that before man arrived, the kakapo's only enemies were birds who found it difficult to find them as their green colour meant they could hide in the forest. G says that when men arrived it was a different story. In other words, the situation changed. They brought dogs and rats which killed kakapo. At the end of C, it says that people believed the kakapo was extinct in the 1960s. The text under 8 then shows that this belief was wrong: Merton found one bird that was still alive.

9 A: The text above 9 says that the team thought the kakapo were safe and then discovered they were still being killed in large numbers. The first two sentences in A say that the team then began to carry out a rescue operation by moving the kakapo to islands where there were no cats, stoats or possums. Unfortunately, there were rats on the new islands – but in the text under 9, it mentions that the team were trying to catch the rats with traps.

10 D: The last sentence of the text above 10 mentions that the team successfully moved the birds to Maud and Codfish Island where they were safe. D starts with persuading the birds to head into the next harder step. This contrasts with the easy success of moving the birds. D also mentions the fact that the birds only breed when the rimu trees produce many seeds so that they have plenty to eat. The text under 10 mentions that the team try to find a diet/food that the birds like. The birds become healthier with the extra food, but still don't breed. The text mentions the rimu tree again, saying that the birds seem to be waiting for it to produce a lot of seed.

11 F: The text above 11 indicates that the birds will not breed until the rimu tree produces a lot of seed, so they have to let nature take its course. This means that they have to wait for the rimu trees to mature. The last sentence of F states that the team recognized the fact that it was only the rimu tree that would turn things around [change the situation]. The text under 11 begins with Armed with this... knowledge. The fact and the knowledge both refer to the understanding that kakapo breed according to good seed production.

12 B: The text above 12 mentions that the team are using electronic monitoring equipment. The last sentence of B says that the birds don't realize they are being watched by electronic eyes. B also says that the females look for a mate [a breeding partner] – and the text under 12 mentions the result – a large group of kakapo chicks.

p.13–16 PAPER 1 Part 3

Further practice and guidance (p.15–16)

13 A: No, only that they will find the advertisements absorbing. It doesn't necessarily mean they will buy products after having seen them.

B: The grammar is passive. It suggests that someone else, in this case the advertisers, will choose the advertisements for the viewers.
