Communications Policy in Transition Benjamin M. Compaine, Shane M. Greenstein, 2001 A collection of research reports on policy issues involving telecommunications particularly the Internet Until the 1980s it was presumed that technical change in most communications services could easily be monitored from centralized state and federal agencies This presumption was long outdated prior to the commercialization of the Internet With the Internet the long forecast convergence of voice video and text bits became a reality Legislation capped by the Telecommunications Act of 1996 created new quasi standards such as fair and reasonable for the FCC and courts to apply leading to nonstop litigation and occasional gridlock This book addresses some of the many telecommunications areas on which public policy makers corporate strategists and social activists must reach agreement Topics include the regulation of access Internet architecture in a commercial era communications infrastructure development the Digital Divide and information policy issues such as intellectual property and the retransmission of TV programming via the Internet Communications Policy and Information Technology Lorrie Faith Cranor, Shane M. Wildman, 2003-08-29 Contributors to this volume explore the dynamics of new communications technologies and public policy from TPRC 2002 The contributors to this volume examine issues raised by the intersection of new communications technologies and public policy in this post boom post bust era Originally presented at the 30th Research Conference on Communication Information and Internet Policy TPRC 2002 traditionally a showcase for the best

Shaping Science and Technology Policy David H. Guston, Daniel Sarewitz, 2007-02-01 With scientific progress occurring at a breathtaking pace science and technology policy has never been more important than it is today Yet there is a very real lack of public discourse about policy making and government involvement in science remains shrouded in both mystery and misunderstanding Who is making choices about technology policy and who stands to win or lose from these choices What criteria are being used to make decisions and why Does government involvement help or hinder scientific research Shaping Science and Technology Policy brings together an exciting and diverse group of emerging scholars both practitioners and academic experts to investigate current issues in science and technology policy Essays explore such topics as globalization the shifting boundary between public and private informed consent in human participation in scientific research intellectual property and university science and the
