Religion and the Great Exhibition of 1851 Geoffrey Cantor,2011-02-24 The Great Exhibition of 1851 is routinely portrayed as a manifestly secular event which was confined to celebrating the success of science technology and manufacturing in the mid Victorian age Geoffrey Cantor presents an innovative reappraisal of the Exhibition demonstrating that it was widely understood by contemporaries to possess a religious dimension and that it generated controversy among religious groups Prince Albert bestowed legitimacy on the Exhibition by proclaiming it to be a display of divine providence whilst others interpreted it as a sign of the coming Apocalypse With anti Catholic feeling running high following the recent papal aggression many Protestants roundly condemned those exhibits associated with Catholicism and some even denounced the Exhibition as a Papist plot Catholics for their part criticized the Exhibition as a further example of religious repression Several evangelical religious organisations energetically rose to the occasion considering the Exhibition to be a divinely ordained opportunity to make converts especially among heathens and foreigners Jews generally welcomed the Exhibition as did Unitarians Quakers Congregationalists and a wide spectrum of Anglicans but all for different reasons Cantor explores this diversity of perception through contemporary sermons and most importantly the highly differentiated religious press Taken all together these religious responses to the Exhibition shed fresh light on a crucial mid century event Genealogical and Heraldic Dictionary of the Peerage and Baronetage of the British Empire ,1858
