
Corrections Officer Civil Service Exam with correct Answers

Constitutional Rights of Inmates - Answer- -detainee inmates are assumed innocent until proven guilty but they still may lose constitutional rights

-while detainee prisoners are entitled to constitutional rights afforded to ordinary citizens, there are exceptions where such rights are overruled by the correctional facility's need to maintain a safe and secure environment

-these exceptions are the right to liberty, the right against search and seizure, and the right to privacy

-sentenced prisoners are convicted and are stripped of some constitutional rights, such as the right to vote

-all prisoners are afforded protection by the eighth amendment, which protects against cruel and unusual punishment, and the fourteenth amendment, which protects against discriminatory treatment

The First Amendment - Answer- -provides freedom of speech, freedom of religion, and freedom of public assembly

-correctional facilities exercise these freedoms to the extent that good security will permit, but first amendment rights are limited for the safety and order of the institution

-if inmates were permitted to assemble at will and practice religion whenever they wanted, it could create chaos in the correctional facility

Inmates Mail - Answer- -correctional facilities encourage inmates to communicate with their family and friends to help stabilize their behavior inside prison

-an inmates mail and communication may be restricted by court order if he or she has a history of threatening witnesses or communicating with the outside in a manner that presents a clear and present danger to others

-correctional staff searching incoming mail may open the mail in the presence of the recipient inmate, as long as they are comfortable that it doesn't contain contraband

-once the mail is deemed safe, it must be given to the inmate without being read

-regular mail is subject to vigorous inspection for contraband

-many attempts are made to smuggle contraband into prison facilities through the postal service

Inmates' Religious Beliefs - Answer- -inmates are granted the right to practice their religion, within reason, as protected by the first amendment

-this protection also includes access to meals consistent with religious beliefs

-clergy are assigned to the facility on a volunteer or paid basis
