Questionnaires for Data-Based Decision Making Susan J. Thomas, 2004-03-06 Excerpt tribe He had faculties He had also various idiosyncrasies He was undeniably the best hunter and trapper and trainer of dogs to sledge as well as the most expert upon snowshoes of all the Indians living upon the point and he was furthermore one of the dirtiest of them and the biggest drunkard whenever opportunity afforded Fortunately for him and for his squaw Bigbeam as she had been facetiously named by an agent of the company the opportunities for getting drunk were rare for the company is conservative in the distribution of that which makes bad hunters Given an abundance of firewater and tobacco Red Dog was the happiest Indian between the northern boundary of the United States and Lake Gary deprived of them both he hunted vigorously thinking all the while of the coming hour when after a long journey and much travail he should be in what was his idea of heaven again To day though the rifle bought from the company stood idle beside the ridge pole the sledge dogs snarled and fought upon the snow outside and Bigbeam squat and broad as became her name looked askance at her lord as she prepared the moose meat uncertain of his temper for his face was cloudy Red Dog was in fact perplexed and was planning deeply Good reason was there for Red Dog s thought Events of the immediate future were of moment to him and all his fellows among whom though no chief was formally acknowledged he was recognized as leader for had he not at one time been with the company as a hired hunter Had he not once gone with a fur carrying party even to Hudson s Bay and thence to the far south and even to Quebec And did he not know the ways of the company and could not he talk a French patois which enabled him to be understood at the stations Now as fitting representative of himself and of his clan a great responsibility had come upon him and he was lost in as anxious thought as could come to a biped of his quality Like a more or less

Survey Research Methodology, 1990-1999 Graham R. Walden, 2002-09-30 Survey research is one of the most widely used research methodologies across the social and behavioral sciences Two trends that have had a major impact on the development of survey methods over the last decade are 1 the application of techniques and theories from cognitive psychology to the understanding and reduction of survey measurement error and 2 the application of new computer and telephony technologies to data collection and analysis These trends and other emerging issues from the 1990 s literature on survey research methods are captured here in 617 detailed annotations to monographs journals government documents dissertations and ERIC documents Annotations include examples from business criminology education health and medicine law library science mass media military science political science psychology sociology social work religion and women s studies The bibliographic entries provide every useful element including series names complete subtitles and overall text page numbers as well as chapter page numbers The extensive annotations are more complete and more detailed than is typical for annotated bibliographies The descriptions include highlights of the study data and sufficient detail to enable the reader to make an informed choice as to whether to seek the full text Appendices include journals cited and the major survey research organizations The annotations are easily accessed through author and subject indexes

Data Construction and Data Analysis for Survey Research Raymond Kent, 2020-05-19 Based on the needs of business marketing and social science students this book provides an accessible and easy to follow guide to survey data analysis The book avoids the more usual statistics driven perspective Rather it provides an intuitive feel for handling survey data by emphasising that data analysis is more about understanding the research objectives what kinds of data have been collected how quantitative data were generated by the process of measurement how to create a data matrix and how to transform raw data before thinking about appropriate statistical calculations The author begins by considering what data are the different kinds of data that surveys generate and the tripartite format of all quantitative data The processes of measurement and the errors that may arise are carefully explained Coverage of the creation and analysis of a data matrix using SPSS is then provided The author then reviews what kinds of statistical procedure are required for what kinds of data and for what purposes The book concludes by giving a review of strategies for coping with all the kinds of practical problems that arise in survey research Reader friendly throughout Data Analysis A Guide to Market and Social Research provides numerous worked examples end of chapter questions and points for further discussion to help reinforce concepts learnt A data diskette containing the worked examples in SPSS is also provided in the back of the book Also available is a companion website with extra features to accompany the text please take a look by clicking below <http://www.palgrave.com/business/kent/index.asp>
