Cultural Planning For Urban Regeneration A Thirdspace Approach:

Ethnic and Minority Cultures as Tourist Attractions Anya Diekmann, Melanie K. Smith, 2015 This book focuses on ethnic and minority communities in urban contexts and the ways in which their cultures are represented in tourism development It offers a multi disciplinary approach which draws on examples and case studies of ethnic and minority communities and cultural tourism development from all around the world including slums in India favelas in Brazil Chinatowns in Australia Jewish quarters in Central and Eastern Europe ethnic villages in China the African district of Brussels the gay quarter in Cape Town and a desert town in Israel It offers a positive perspective on ethnic and minority cultures and communities at a time when social and political support is lacking in many countries This book will be a useful resource for those studying and researching cultural and urban tourism urban planning and development community studies and urban and cultural geography

Re-articulating Culture in the Context of Urban Regeneration Melanie Kay Smith, 2009 The aim of this thesis is to provide a new framework for cultural regeneration planning the so called Thirdspace approach while examining the different ways in which culture is articulated in the context of urban regeneration The research critically analyses approaches to urban regeneration which have used culture as a tool to influence development It will be argued that the multiplicity of stakeholder voices and viewpoints are rarely heard by those who manage and plan urban regeneration especially those of diverse local communities Cultural planning has already started to take into consideration the lives and traditions of local places and people however it is argued that a Thirdspace framework Soja 1996 as influenced by Lef bvre 1974 takes this a stage further Using a case study of Maritime Greenwich in South East London the researcher employs a crystallisation of mainly qualitative methods to challenge prevailing planning paradigms in the context of culture led regeneration The research advocates more holistic approaches to planning with the accommodation of multiple viewpoints and the consultation of diverse stakeholders which are prerequisites for sustainable urban regeneration The data analysis leads to the establishment of new models of communication consultation and social impact research Although planners are still viewed as central to the regeneration process recommendations for good practice encourage them to question their ingrained value systems and to engage in more open and radical thinking Overall the research demonstrates that Thirdspace thinking can produce a form of cultural planning which is even more pluralistic and inclusive aspirational and creative as well as emancipatory and progressive

Tourism Recreation Research ,2005 Tourism, Culture and Regeneration Melanie K. Smith, 2007 Sustainable and integrated regeneration in the context of culture and tourism is explored for the first time within this book The text is enhanced by international case studies

The Asian Economic Review ,2007 Cultural Planning for Urban Regeneration Melanie Kay Smith, 2010-08 The aim of this book is to provide a new framework for cultural regeneration planning The research critically analyses approaches to urban regeneration which have used culture as a tool to influence development Cultural planning has already started to take into consideration the lives and traditions of local places and people however it is argued that a Thirdspace framework Soja 1996 as influenced by Lefebvre 1974 takes this a stage further Thirdspace suggests that planning should mediate between physical and material elements symbolic visions and perceptions and lived experiences and everyday life in urban environments Using a case study of Maritime Greenwich in South East London the author employs a crystallisation of mainly qualitative methods to challenge prevailing planning paradigms in the context of culture led regeneration

The Routledge Handbook of Henri Lefebvre, The City and Urban Society Michael E. Leary-Owhin, John P. McCarthy, 2019-11-21 The Routledge Handbook of Henri Lefebvre The City and Urban Society is the first edited book to focus on Lefebvre's urban theories and ideas from a global perspective making use of recent theoretical and empirical developments with contributions from eminent as well as emergent global scholars The book provides international comparison of Lefebvrian research and theoretical conjecture and aims to engage with and critique Lefebvre's ideas in the context of contemporary urban social and environmental upheavals to use Lefebvre's spatial triad as a research tool as well as a point of departure for the adoption of ideas such as differential space to reassess Lefebvre's ideas in relation to nature and global environmental sustainability and to highlight how a Lefebvrian approach might assist in mobilising resistance to the excesses of globalised neoliberal urbanism The volume draws inspiration from Lefebvre's key texts The Production of Space Critique of Everyday Life and The Urban Revolution and includes a comprehensive introduction and concluding chapter by the editors The conclusions highlight implications in relation to increasing spatial inequalities increasing diversity of needs including those of migrants more authoritarian approaches and asymmetries of access to urban space Above all the book illustrates the continuing relevance of Lefebvre's ideas for contemporary urban issues and shows via global case studies how resistance to spatial domination by powerful interests might be achieved The Handbook helps the reader navigate the complex terrain of spatial research inspired by Lefebvre In particular the Handbook focuses on the series of struggles globally for the right to the city and the collision of debates around the urban age cityism and planetary urbanisation It will be a guide for graduate and advanced undergraduate teaching and a key reference for academics in the fields of Human Geography Sociology Political Science Applied Philosophy Planning Urban Theory and Urban Studies Practitioners and activists in the field will also find the book of relevance
