International Journal of Educational Reform ,1996 Unique Forms of Knowledge and Curriculum in Hip-hop Pedagogy Landon Hill, 2015 Abstract Utilizing the frameworks of critical race theory and culturally relevant pedagogy this research illustrates ways in which hip hop pedagogy can create a more liberating educational experience for Black and Latina o students than currently offered in urban schools The current literature on hip hop pedagogy mainly focuses on how hip hop makes standardized subjects more appealing to urban students while vaguely referencing its relevance to youth living in urban communities Much less research has specified how hip hop within the classroom can address the issues directly affecting Black and Latina o youth Consequently some may wonder if hip hop is actually being used to transform education or merely to help students excel based on the standards of dominant culture Au 2005 The purpose of this thesis is to understand contemporary issues facing underprivileged Black and Latina o youth effective teaching methods that can be implemented in schools using hip hop pedagogy and areas of study relevant to hip hop culture

Between the World and the Urban Classroom George Sirrakos Jr., Christopher Emdin, 2017-05-12 Borrowing from the ideas of John Dewey schools and classrooms are a reflection of the world therefore in order to make sense of the urban classroom we need to make sense of the world In this book the editors have compiled a collection of nine critical essays or chapters each examining a particular contemporary national and or international event The essays each undertake an explicit approach to naming oppression and addressing it in the context of urban schooling Each essay has a two fold purpose The first purpose is to help readers see the world unveiled through a more critical lens and to problematize long held beliefs about urban classrooms with regard to race gender social class equity and access Second as each author draws parallels between an event and urban classrooms a better understanding of the microstructures that exist in urban classrooms emerges At a time of serious political economic and social uncertainty we need a book like this one that showcases how the world can be seen as a critical site of curriculum and pedagogy A powerful intersectional analysis of the world word and urban sociopolitical context authors in this book push the boundaries of what educators know and do in urban schools and classrooms Grounded in frameworks of critical race theory and culturally relevant pedagogy authors center essential societal moments that must be viewed as the real curriculum These moments can equip students with tools to examine the what of the world as well as how to examine critique challenge and disrupt individual systemic and structural realities and practices that perpetuate and maintain a racist sexist homophobic and xenophobic status quo This is an important forward thinking innovative book a welcome addition to the field of urban education H Richard Milner IV Helen Faison Chair of Urban Education University of Pittsburgh
