

Allegro PCB Power Delivery Network Analysis

An integrated design and analysis environment for faster development of power-optimized PCBs

Cadence® Allegro® PCB Power Delivery Network Analysis lets you bring your PCB design from start to power-related issues throughout the design process and speed time-to-market. tightly integrated with Allegro PCB Designer, enables you to rapidly modify the design and re-analyze through analysis iterations without time-consuming and error-prone translations. Using this unified environment, you can create power guidelines early in the design process, make changes on-the-fly, and address the PCB challenge of consistent electrical performance under changing loads.

Allegro PCB PDN Analysis

Power delivery network (PDN) analysis is a critical component of contemporary PCB design. Higher frequency signals being processed by faster multi-processor chips demand far greater design discipline. It can be difficult to find challenges in the need to reduce PCB costs by decreasing component count without compromising performance with the high demand for lower voltage drop in the many digital and analog applications.

PCB designers and electrical engineers can use the new tools to tightly integrate Allegro PCB Designer with Allegro PCB PDN analysis environment, which enables rapid design modification and analysis without tedious re-design to get through costly reworking and error-prone iterations. This unified design-to-analysis environment lets you work early in the design process with various features that make it easier to identify with difficult source and sink components, to create design guidelines, and to optimize the PCB layout.

Real-time analysis enables accurate modeling of the design of a system's power and ground planes impedance
