Endogenous Development Chiku Malunga, Susan Holcombe, 2017-10-02 Western ideas worldviews actors tools models and frameworks have long dominated development theory and practice in Africa The resulting development interventions are too rarely locally rooted locally driven or resonant with local context At the same time theories and practices from developing countries rarely travel to the Western agencies dominating development undermining the possibility of a beneficial synergy that could be obtained from the best of both worlds There are many reasons why the experiences of locally driven development are not communicated back to global development actors including but not limited to the marginal role of Southern voices in global forums This volume gives a platform to authentic African voices and non African collaborators to explore what endogenous development means how it can be implemented and how an endogenous development approach can shape local national and global policies This book was originally published as a special issue of Development in Practice Environmental performance of pig supply chains: Guidelines for assessment (Version 1) Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2018-02-23 This is a living document produced by the Livestock Environmental and Assessment Performance LEAP Partnership The document presents a methodology and provides guidance for the assessment of the environmental performance of pig supply chains It provides users guidance on how to apply the life cycle assessment approach to pig supply chains Demand for livestock products is projected to grow 1.3 percent per year until 2050 driven by global population growth and increasing wealth and urbanization This projected growth places significant pressure on the livestock sector to perform in a more sustainable way Currently many different methods are used to assess the environmental impacts and performance of livestock products This causes confusion and makes it difficult to compare results and set priorities for continuing improvement The intention of this document is to provide an overview assessment of existing studies and associated methods that have used life cycle
