The Covenant of Peace Henry Noel Brailsford,2015-07-12 Excerpt from The Covenant of Peace An Essay on the League of Nations Early in 1918 the English Review offered a prize of 100 for the best short study of the idea of a League of Nations The jury consisting of the Master of Baliol Lord Parmoor General Sir Ian Hamilton Professor Bury Mr H G Wells and Mr John Galsworthy awarded the prize to the following essay written by Mr H N Brailsford This competition of the English Review was more fortunate in its results than the majority of similar competitions It actually succeeded in eliciting by far the best short account which has yet been published of what a League of Nations should be and why it is needed Mr H N Brailsford s success in winning this competition is not surprising More than any other English or American political writer he has persistently and persuasively contended for an organized society of nations which would deprive war of any legal sanction As a journalist and one of the editors of the London Nation he has long opposed the politics of the Balance of Power with the politics of a concert of nations His book The War of Steel and Gold was the most drastic exposure published previous to 1914 of the competitive imperialism which dictated the colonial policies of all the European Powers and of the reaction of this imperialism upon their domestic politics and upon their relations one to another in Europe About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
