Cultural Encounters in the Arab World Tarik Sabry, 2010 Explores experiences of being modern in Arab transitional societies

Culture, Time and Publics in the Arab World Tarik Sabry, Joe F. Khalil, 2019-04-18 In this revealing new study Tarik Sabry and Joe Khalil preside over an original new exploration of Arab culture They employ subjects as varied as anthropology media studies philosophy political economy and cultural studies to illuminate the relationship between culture time and publics in an Arab context whilst also laying the foundations for a much more nuanced picture of Arab society The diverse themes and locations explored include communities at borders in rural and urban locations Syrian drama audiences Egyptian Saudi and Tunisian artists and activists and historical and contemporary Arab intellectuals This fresh empirical research and interdisciplinary analysis illuminate intricate experiences that transcend local national and religious boundaries and expose how Arab publics combine the media and technology to create a rich experience that shapes their collective imagination and social structure Providing a grounded orientation to key debates on time and what can be defined as public in modern Arab cultures Sabry and Khalil address teachers students and those concerned about the delicate structures that underpin the upheavals of the modern Arab world

Arab Cultural Studies Anastasia Valassopoulos, 2013-09-13 This book seeks to both showcase and further develop innovative research and debates on contemporary Arab cultural production Popular culture in the form of cinema popular music literature visual media and cyber cultures both local and imported enjoy a central role in Arab cultural life and the contributors to this innovative collection showcase the tremendous cultural output emerging from the Arab world They present sensitive conceptual readings whilst remaining mindful of the place of this work within a wider framework that seeks to prevent isolationist readings of cultural phenomena Making sense of the place of culture in the Arab world and agreeing upon a broadly recognisable and commonly accepted set of terms within which to discuss this output is a new and urgent challenge Arab Cultural Studies aspires to understand communicate and theorise these forms This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal for Cultural Research

Arab Cultural Studies Tarik Sabry, 2011-11-30 Arab Cultural Studies Mapping the Field is the first attempt to explore ways of conceptualising and theorising the nascent field of Arab Cultural Studies It reflects and engages in an interdisciplinary discussion on the different facets of Arab cultural studies including gender economy history epistemology language method politics literary and cultural criticism institutionalization popular culture creativity and much more The book presents a meta narrative about how scholars have thus far thought and re thought the field It brings together prominent and emerging experts writing from both Arab and Western academia to engage with key complex epistemic and methodological questions and to articulate in the meantime the new kinds of language and hermeneutics necessary for the appropriation of an historically conscious and coherent field of scientific enquiry into contemporary Arab media culture and society

Culture, Time and Publics in the Arab World Tarik Sabry, Joe F. Khalil, 2019-04-18 In this revealing new study Tarik Sabry and Joe

Khalil preside over an original new exploration of Arab culture. They employ subjects as varied as anthropology, media studies, philosophy, political economy, and cultural studies to illuminate the relationship between culture, time, and publics in an Arab context whilst also laying the foundations for a much more nuanced picture of Arab society. The diverse themes and locations explored include communities at borders in rural and urban locations, Syrian drama audiences, Egyptian, Saudi, and Tunisian artists and activists, and historical and contemporary Arab intellectuals. This fresh empirical research and interdisciplinary analysis illuminate intricate experiences that transcend local, national, and religious boundaries and expose how Arab publics combine the media and technology to create a rich experience that shapes their collective imagination and social structure. Providing a grounded orientation to key debates on time and what can be defined as public in modern Arab cultures, Sabry and Khalil address teachers, students, and those concerned about the delicate structures that underpin the upheavals of the modern Arab world.

Arab Subcultures Tarik Sabry, Layal Ftouni, 2016-12-18. What is Arab about Arab subcultures? This is the first book to set out to delineate different ways of studying and theorising Arab subcultural groups and practices, including film, graffiti, music, live art, performances, Arab techies, and youth cultures. Contributors tackle a number of questions including: How is the study of Arab subcultures to be theorised? How are we to analyse such creative processes in a new worldliness characterised by trans temporality and trans subjectivity? Arab Subcultures effectively opens up a critical and interdisciplinary dialogue about Arab subcultures with different fields of enquiry, including anthropology, philosophy, art, criticism, and cultural studies, at the heart of which lies the key intellectual task of re-imagining the uneasy relation between aesthetics and politics in the age of revolutions.

The Media in Arab Countries Tourya Gaaaybess, 2019-01-23. In early research work on international communication, the countries of North Africa and the Middle East were seen as part of the Third World, and the media had to be at the service of development. However, this situation is changing due to the transnationalization and liberalization of the media. Indeed, since the 1990s, the entry of the South and Arab countries in this case into the information society has become the dominant creed, although the vision is still globalizing and marked by stereotypes. Representations of these societies are closely associated with international relations and geopolitics, characterized by tensions and conflicts. However, a force has come to disrupt the traditional rules of the game: Arab audiences. Digital media, the dissemination of which has been enabled by the implementation of the information society, empowers them to participate fully in a media confluence. This liberation from the discourse has two major consequences: the media and journalism sector has become more strategic than ever, and action toward development must be reinvented.

The Handbook of Media and Culture in the Middle East Joe F. Khalil, Gholam Khiabany, Tourya Gaaaybess, Bilge Yesil, 2023-06-27. The Handbook of Media and Culture in the Middle East is an invaluable resource for anyone seeking to understand the profound and complex changes shaping the 21st century. With trans-regional contributions from established and emerging scholars, this ground-breaking volume offers conceptual essays and in depth chapters that present rich analyses grounded in historical and geopolitical contexts as well as key theory and empirical research Rather than viewing the Middle East as a monolithic culture this Handbook examines the diverse and multi local characteristics of the region s knowledge production dynamic media and rich cultures It addresses a wide range of topics including the evolving mainstream and alternative media competing histories in the region and pressing socio economic and media debates Additionally the Handbook explores the impact of regional and international politics on Middle Eastern cultures and media Designed to serve as a foundation for the next era of research in the field The Handbook of Media and Culture in the Middle East is essential reading for all academics scholars and media practitioners Its comprehensive scope makes it an excellent primary or supplementary textbook for undergraduate or graduate courses in global studies media and communication journalism anthropology sociology economics political science and history

Children's TV and Digital Media in the Arab World Naomi Sakr, Jeanette Steemers, 2017-03-30 Who analyses children s screen content and media use in Arab countries and with what results Children defined internationally as under 18s account for some 40 per cent of Arab populations and the proportion of under fives is correspondingly large Yet studies of children s media and child audiences in the region are as scarce as truly popular locally produced media content aimed at children At the very time when conflict and uncertainty in key Arab countries have made local development and diversification of children s media more remote it has become more urgent to gain a better understanding of how the next generation s identities and worldviews are formed This interdisciplinary book is the first in English to probe both the state of Arab screen media for children and the practices of Arabic speaking children in producing as well as consuming screen content It responds to the gap in research by bringing together a holistic investigation of institutions and leading players children s media experiences and some iconic media texts With children s media increasingly linked to merchandising which favours US based global players and globalizing forces this volume provides a timely insight into tensions between differing concepts of childhood and desirable media messages
