Cape Breton in the Long Twentieth Century Lachlan MacKinnon, Andrew Parnaby, 2024-03-26 The emergence dominance and alarmingly rapid retreat of modernist industrial capitalism on Cape Breton Island during the long twentieth century offers a particularly captivating window on the lasting and varied effects of deindustrialization Now at the tail end of the industrial moment in North American history the story of Cape Breton Island presents an opportunity to reflect on how industrialization and deindustrialization have shaped human experiences Covering the period between 1860 and the early 2000s this volume looks at trade unionism state and cultural responses to deindustrialization including the more recent pivot towards the tourist industry and the lived experiences of Indigenous and Black people Rather than focusing on the separate or distinct nature of Cape Breton contributors place the island within broad transnational networks such as the financial world of the Anglo Atlantic the Celtic music revival the Black diaspora Canadian development programs and more In capturing the vital elements of a region on the rural resource frontier that was battered by deindustrialization the histories included here show how the interplay of the state cultures and transnational connections shaped how people navigated these heavy pressures both individually and collectively
