a voice to a set of long lasting and yet differentiated cultural traditions of learning and education and thereby creating a common space for critical philosophical reflection of one's own educational tradition and practice The book is especially timely given that the vocabularies in educational discourse today have been dominantly West centred for a long time even while the whole world has become more and more diverse across races religions and cultures It offers a great opportunity to philosophers of education for their cross cultural understanding and self understanding of educational ideas and practices on both personal and institutional levels

The Confucian Concept of Learning Duck-Joo Kwak, Morimichi Kato, Ruyun Hung, 2019-12-18 What does the Confucian heritage mean to modern East Asian education today Is it invalid and outdated or an irreplaceable cultural resource for an alternative approach to education And to what extent can we recover the humanistic elements of the Confucian tradition of education for use in world education Written from a comparative perspective this book attempts to collectively explore these pivotal questions in search of future directions in education In East Asian countries like China Japan Korea and Taiwan Confucianism as a philosophy of learning is still deeply embedded in the ways people think of and practice education in their everyday life even if their official language puts on the Western scientific mode It discusses how Confucian concepts including rote learning and conformity to authority can be differently understood for the post liberal and post metaphysical culture of education today The contributors seek to make sense of East Asian experiences of modern education and to find a way to make Confucian philosophy of education compatible with the Western idea of liberal education This book was originally published as a special issue of Educational Philosophy and Theory
