Celtic Twilight W B Yeats:

The Celtic Twilight William Butler Yeats, 1905 The Celtic Twilight William Butler Yeats, 2020-09-28 Many of the tales in this book were told me by one Paddy Flynn a little bright eyed old man who lived in a leaky and one roomed cabin in the village of Ballisodare which is he was wont to say the most gentle whereby he meant faery place in the whole of County Sligo Others hold it however but second to Drumcliff and Drumahair The first time I saw him he was cooking mushrooms for himself the next time he was asleep under a hedge smiling in his sleep He was indeed always cheerful though I thought I could see in his eyes swift as the eyes of a rabbit when they peered out of their wrinkled holes a melancholy which was well nigh a portion of their joy the visionary melancholy of purely instinctive natures and of all animals And yet there was much in his life to depress him for in the triple solitude of age eccentricity and deafness he went about much pestered by children It was for this very reason perhaps that he ever recommended mirth and hopefulness He was fond for instance of telling how Collumcille cheered up his mother How are you to day mother said the saint Worse replied the mother May you be worse to morrow said the saint The next day Collumcille came again and exactly the same conversation took place but the third day the mother said Better thank God And the saint replied May you be better to morrow He was fond too of telling how the Judge smiles at the last day alike when he rewards the good and condemns the lost to unceasing flames He had many strange sights to keep him cheerful or to make him sad I asked him had he ever seen the faeries and got the reply Am I not annoyed with them I asked too if he had ever seen the banshee I have seen it he said down there by the water batting the river with its hands WB Yeats - The Celtic Twilight Wb Yeats, 2020-10-10 Best known for his poetry William Butler Yeats 1865 1939
