Class Self Culture Class Self Culture:

Class, Self, Culture Beverley Skeggs, 2013-11-05 Class Self Culture puts class back on the map in a novel way by taking a new look at how class is made and given value through culture. It shows how different classes become attributed with value enabling culture to be deployed as a resource and as a form of property which has both use value to the person and exchange value in systems of symbolic and economic exchange. The book shows how class has not disappeared but is known and spoken in a myriad of different ways always working through other categorisations of nation race gender and sexuality and across different sites through popular culture political rhetoric and academic theory. In particular attention is given to how new forms of personhood are being generated through mechanisms of giving value to culture and how what we come to know and assume to be a self is always a classed formation. Analysing four processes of inscription institutionalisation perspective taking and exchange relationships it challenges recent debates on reflexivity risk rational action theory individualisation and mobility by showing how these are all reliant on fixing some people in place so that others can move. Reacting to Reality

Television Beverley Skeggs, Helen Wood, 2012-05-04 The unremitting explosion of reality television across the schedules has become a sustainable global phenomenon generating considerable popular and political fervour. The zeal with which television executives seize on the easily replicated formats is matched equally by the eagerness of audiences to offer themselves up as television participants for others to watch and criticise. But how do we react to so many people breaking down fronting up tearing apart dominating empathising humiliating and seemingly laying bare their raw emotion for our entertainment? Do we feel sad when others are sad? Or are we relieved by the knowledge that our circumstances might be better? As reality television extends into the experiences of the everyday it makes dramatic and often shocking the mundane aspects of our intimate relations inviting us as viewers into a volatile arena of mediated morality. This book addresses the impact of this endless opening out of intimacy as an entertainment trend that erodes the traditional boundaries between spectator and performer demanding new tools for capturing television's relationships with audiences. Rather than asking how the reality television genre is interpreted as text or representation the authors investigate the politics of viewer encounters as interventions evocations and more generally mediated social relations. The authors show how different reactions can involve viewers in tournaments of value as women viewers empathise and struggle to validate their own lives. The authors use these detailed responses to challenge theories of the self governmentality and ideology. A must read for both students and researchers in audience studies television studies and media and communication studies. The Formation of the Victorian

Literary Profession Richard Salmon, 2013-06-27 A fascinating study into the development of the Victorian literary profession that examines literary and visual representations of authorship. Feeding the Middle Classes Kate Gibson, 2023-11-20 Political and public stories about class and food rarely scrutinize how socio economic and cultural resources enable access to certain foods. Tracing the symbolic links between everyday eating at home and broader social frameworks this book examines how classed relations play out in middle class homes to show why class is relevant to all understandings of food in Great Britain The author illuminates how good food and the identities configured through its consumption is associated with middle class lifestyles and why this relationship is often unquestioned and thus saliently normalized Considering food consumption in a wider social context the book offers an alternative understanding of class relations which extends academic political and public debates about privilege

Identity in the 21st Century M. Wetherell, 2009-11-05 Bringing together leading scholars to investigate trends in contemporary social life this book examines the current patterning of identities based on class and community gender and generation race faith and ethnicity and derived from popular culture exploring debates about social change individualization and the re making of social class

Vulnerabilities, Care and Family Law Julie Wallbank, Jonathan Herring, 2013-11-26 While in the past family life was characterised as a haven from the harsh realities of life it is now recognised as a site of vulnerabilities and a place where care work can go unacknowledged and be a source of social and economic hardship This book addresses the strong relationships that exist between vulnerability and care and dependency in particular contexts where family law and social policy have a contribution to make A fundamental premise of this collection is that vulnerability needs to be analysed in a way that gets at the heart of the differential power relationships that exist in society particularly in respect of access to family justice including effective social policy and law targeted at the specific needs of families in mutually dependent caring relationships It is therefore crucial to critically examine the various approaches taken by policy makers and law reformers in order to understand the range of ways that some families and some family members may be rendered more vulnerable than others The first book of its kind to provide an intersectional approach to this subject Vulnerabilities Care and Family Law will be of interest to students and practitioners of social policy and family law
