- Pedometer functions
- Alarm and hourly time signal
- Illumination

Normal operation should return after the battery level recovers, but if the RECON indicator appears frequently you should have the watch's battery replaced.

Energy Consumption Graph

The energy consumption graph shows your energy consumption (based on the number of steps counted) for up to the past seven days.

- Unit = kcal.
- Note that each "bar" of the graph is made up of two display dot columns. Day 5 in the example below indicates energy consumption of 250.1 to 250 kcal. Day 3 indicates 250.1 to 300 kcal.

Using the Watch's Pedometer Functions

Your watch has a built-in pedometer that counts the number of steps you take while walking. It uses this count to calculate distance, pace, and other data. Some of the calculated data is based on personal information you need to input before using the watch. Measured and calculated data can be saved in watch memory for later recall whenever you need it.

Important!

- Before trying to use the watch's pedometer functions, you first need to configure personal information settings.

Normal Walking and Exercise Walking

There are two types of walking that can be measured by your watch: normal walking and exercise walking.

Note

- If you have both normal walking and exercise walking measurement turned on, the watch will give priority to exercise walking.
- Normal walking and exercise walking continue to count your steps while turned on, even if you change to another mode. The only time your steps are not counted is when an alarm is sounding or while a setting screen (indicated by a flashing setting) is on the display.

Normal Walking Measurement

Use normal walking measurement when you want to count the number of steps you take as you go about your normal daily life. You can turn on normal walking measurement in the Timekeeping Mode.

Exercise Walking Measurement

As its name suggests, exercise walking measurement is intended for counting your steps while walking briskly, as part of an exercise program. To turn on exercise walking measurement, you need to enter the Exercise Walking Mode.

Configuring Personal Information

You need to preset the following personal information before the watch can calculate your energy consumption and other data based on the number of steps you take while walking.

- Your current weight
- Your normal walking stride length
- Your exercise walking stride length
- Your age
- Your gender
- The energy consumption unit you want to use
- The weight unit you want to use
- The stride length unit you want to use
- The sensitivity level you want to use

You need to enter the Personal Data Setting Mode to configure personal information settings. While in the Timekeeping Mode, press (2) five times to enter the Personal Data Setting Mode.
