Why were Korea divided?

When World War II ended, Korea became a divided nation. North of the 38-degree line, a line that divides Korea at 38 degrees north latitude, the Japanese surrendered to the Soviets. South of that line, the Japanese surrendered to the U.S.

As in Germany, two nations developed. The Soviet Union supported a Communist government in North Korea. The United States supported a non-Communist government in South Korea. On June 25, 1950, North Korea invaded South Korea. President Truman fought the war with help from the UN. The United States and other coalition went through to assist South Korea. At last, the South Koreans were captured almost all of South Korea.

Then the UN army made a bold counter attack. The attack was led by General Douglas MacArthur. In 1953, the two Koreas agreed to a truce. The truce brought an ending North and South Korea remained the same.

North Korea had a Communist government. It had a large, strong army and tight government control, but it also had many economic problems. For more than 30 years, dictators ruled South Korea. But its economy grew, its participation in government U.S., and free elections were held in South Korea after a new constitution was adopted in 1987.
