China's New Confucianism Daniel A. Bell, 2009 State-Society Relations and Confucian Revivalism in Contemporary China Qin Pang, 2018-05-25 This book is a study of the causes of the Confucian revival and the party state's response in China today. It concentrates on the interactions between state and society and the implications for the Chinese state's control over society or in other words its survival over a rapidly modernizing society. The book explores the answers to questions such as: Why has Confucianism suddenly gathered great momentum in contemporary Chinese society? What is the role of the Chinese state in its rise? Is the state really the orchestrator of the Confucian revival as has been widely assumed? This book will be of interest to think tank and policy researchers, sinologists and those with an interest in Chinese society.

The Making and Remaking of China's "Red Classics" Rosemary Roberts, Li Li, 2017-10-19

The Making and Remaking of China's Red Classics is the first full length work to bring together research on the red classics across the entire Maoist period through to the reform era. It covers a representative range of genres including novels, short stories, films, TV series, picture books, animation and traditional style paintings. Collectively the chapters offer a panoramic view of the production and reception of the original red classics and the adaptations and remakes of such works after the Cultural Revolution. The contributors present fascinating stories of how a work came to be regarded as or failed to become a red classic. There has never been a single answer to the question of what counts as a red classic; artists had to negotiate the changing political circumstances and adopt the correct artistic technique to bring out the authentic image of the people while appealing to the taste of the mass audience at the same time. A critical examination of these works reveals their sociopolitical and ideological import, aesthetic significance and function as a mass cultural phenomenon at particular historical moments. This volume marks a step forward in the growing field of the study of Maoist cultural products. The Making and Remaking of China's Red Classics analyzes the creation of literature in the Maoist era as well as the way in which the revolutionary canon was rediscovered and imagined during the reform period. This book is a timely and fascinating set of studies critically illuminating a foundational time during PRC history and its aftermath.

Wendy Larson, professor emerita, University of Oregon

Creative works produced in the Mao era (1942-1976) are often dismissed as mere propaganda. Despite the fact that they are artistic reflections of that remarkable period, scholars have generally ignored these red classics. This book throws much needed light on them. It is a must read for anyone wanting to understand the cultural scene in China.

Confucianism as a World Religion Anna Sun, 2013-04-21

Is Confucianism a religion? If so, why do most Chinese think it isn't? From ancient Confucian temples to nineteenth century archives to the testimony of people interviewed by the author throughout China over a period of more than a decade, this book traces the birth and growth of the idea of Confucianism as a world religion. The book begins at Oxford in the late nineteenth century when Friedrich Max Müller and James Legge classified Confucianism as a world religion in the new discourse of world religions and the emerging discipline of comparative religion. Anna Sun shows how that decisive moment continues to influence the understanding of Confucianism in the contemporary world, not only in the West but also in China, where the politics of Confucianism has become important to the present regime in a time of transition. Contested histories of

Confucianism are vital signs of social and political change Sun also examines the revival of Confucianism in contemporary China and the social significance of the ritual practice of Confucian temples While the Chinese government turns to Confucianism to justify its political agenda Confucian activists have started a movement to turn Confucianism into a religion Confucianism as a world religion might have begun as a scholarly construction but are we witnessing its transformation into a social and political reality With historical analysis extensive research and thoughtful reflection Confucianism as a World Religion will engage all those interested in religion and global politics at the beginning of the Chinese century

China's Rise and Regional Integration in East Asia Yong Wook Lee, Key-young Son, 2014-03-05 With featuring far reaching diversities and disparities among the regional states in their political economic and social systems and cultural and religious orientations East Asia is a microcosm of international society at large Nevertheless there are unique dynamics unfolding in East Asia at the turn of the twenty first century namely the rise of China as a contender for regional and global hegemony and a set of collective initiatives to integrate the region into a harmonious community This book provides new arguments on China's rise and the transformation of East Asia and analyzes the foreign policy behavior of the regional states and relations among them In doing so the contributors show why and how China is rising and how China's rise shapes the emerging regional structures and institutions in East Asia Furthermore given the East Asian context where the world's second and third largest economies coexist with much smaller states and with China's ascendancy likely to continue this book challenges the pervasive dichotomy of hegemony and community This allows for a fuller and more nuanced account of China's role and the shifting regional policies in East Asia in which hegemonic cooperation does not necessarily lead to a hegemonic form of regional order Presenting strategic political economic and historical perspectives on China's changing role in the region and the development of regionalism China's Rise and Regional Integration in East Asia will be of great interest to students and scholars of Chinese politics Asian politics international relations and regionalism
