Central Asia's Shrinking Connectivity Gap Implications For U.S. Strategy:

CENTRAL ASIA'S SHRINKING CONNECTIVITY GAP: IMPLICATIONS FOR U.S. STRATEGY. Roman Muzalevsky, 2022 Central Asia's Shrinking Connectivity Gap, 2014 The United States is witnessing a transformation of Central Asia a critical yet highly understudied and misunderstood area of the world which is seeing growing influence of China India and Russia The agendas of these actors as well as the United States Japan the EU Turkey and Iran among others have enabled Central and South Asian countries to shrink their connectivity gaps dramatically in the last 2 decades aiding the U S grand strategy of advancing global connectivity However they could also potentially undermine a multidirectional connectivity and limit development choices for the Central Asian states generating challenges and opportunities for the United States whose global influence is receding The U S future global and regional role and capabilities will depend on how well Washington adjusts its grand strategy in response to current and projected economic and geopolitical trends in the era of rising powers As the United States calibrates its ends and means its assessment of the importance of Central and South Asia for its strategy will in large part hinge on security trends unfolding in Afghanistan and Pakistan Whether Central Asia will become a major pillar of the U S grand strategy given the rise of China and India and the resurgence of Russia remains unclear But its goals of supporting sovereignty democratization and inter regional links in Central and South Asia offer some hope that Washington will continue to support the region s global connectivity preferably by pursuing an engaged long term and substantive regional strategy Publisher s web site Central Asia's Shrinking Connectivity Gap: Implications for U. S. Strategy Strategic Studies Strategic Studies Institute, U. S. Army U.S. Army War College Press, 2014-12-16 Once sealed off from the rest of the world during the Soviet times the states of Central Asia today are rapidly integrating with the global economy The opening up of China in the 1980s the demise of the Soviet Union a decade later and the ongoing globalization have all served as grand forces facilitating this highly monumental development The U S regional military involvement after September 11 2001 and engagement by other actors have further enabled these countries to reconnect with the world this time as sovereign units Today more than 2 decades after they gained their independence the Central Asian countries along with the rest of the world face a great challenge and an opportunity the rise of China India and resurgence of Russia These neighboring powers are investing and facilitating internal and external links of the region and profoundly shaping the region s external connectivity at the very time as the United States withdraws its troops from Afghanistan and sees a relative decline in its global and regional power and influence China's Economic Statecraft: Co-optation, Cooperation And Coercion Mingjiang Li, 2017-03-16 This book aims to study China s economic statecraft in the contemporary era in a comprehensive manner It attempts to explore China s approaches to using its economic trade investment and financial power for the pursuit of its political security and strategic interests at the regional and global levels The volume addresses three major issue areas in particular The first issue pertains to how Beijing has used its economic clout to protect what it perceives as its core interests in its external relations Three cases are included the Taiwan issue human rights and territorial dispute in the South China Sea The second major area of inquiry focuses on how China has employed its economic power in its key bilateral relations including relations with Japan North Korea the United States and other states in the East Asian region The third issue concerns China's economic statecraft in the global context It addresses the impacts of China's economic power and policy on the transformation of the global financial structure developments in Africa the international intellectual property rights regime and China's food security relations with the outside world

Afghanistan and Its Neighbors after the NATO Withdrawal Kirill Nourzhanov, Amin Saikal, 2016-03-04 The planned reductions in NATO troop numbers in Afghanistan through 2015 and a final withdrawal at the end of 2016 brings up numerous pressing questions about the security and national interests of not just Afghanistan but of the broader region itself The problem of a chaotic Afghanistan or of an outright Taliban victory is of great concern to not only immediate neighbors such as Iran Pakistan and the former Soviet Central Asian republics to the north but also to those countries in the region with Afghanistan related security or economic concerns such as China and India Further abroad Russian American and European interests and plans for dealing with the fallout from Afghanistan must also be taken into account as these major powers have enduring interests in Afghanistan and the region This volume puts the prospects for short and mid term security dynamics at the core of the analysis with each case being placed in its proper contemporary historical economic and political context The book will offer a truly comprehensive nuanced and timely account of the security situation in and around Afghanistan

China, The United States, and the Future of Central Asia David Denoon, 2015-07-10 The first of a three volume series on the interaction of the US and China in different regions of the world China the United States and the Future of Central Asia explores the delicate balance of competing foreign interests in this resource rich and politically tumultuous region Editor David Denoon and his internationally renowned set of contributors assess the different objectives and strategies the US and China deploy in the region and examine how the two world powers are indirectly competitive with one another for influence in Central Asia While the US is focused on maintaining and supporting its military forces in neighboring states China has its sights on procuring natural resources for its fast growing economy and preventing the expansion of fundamentalist Islam inside its borders This book covers important issues such as the creation of international gas pipelines the challenges of building crucial transcontinental roadways that must pass through countries facing insurgencies the efforts of the US and China to encourage and provide better security in the region and how the Central Asian countries themselves view their role in international politics and the global economy The book also covers key outside powers with influence in the region Russia with its historical ties to the many Central Asian countries that used to belong to the USSR is perhaps the biggest international presence in the area and other countries on the region's periphery like Iran Turkey Pakistan and India have a stake in the fortunes and future of Central Asia as well A comprehensive original and up to date collection this book is a wide ranging
