Connections, Mobilities, Urban Prospects and Environmental Threats Louis F. Cassar, Annick Douguédroit, Theano S. Terkenli, 2015-09-10 This volume provides specialized insights into selected Mediterranean geographies such as information communication technologies tourism urbanization and climate change threats with a focus on emerging and often overlooked issues in light of the impact of current trends of globalization and the financial crisis in the broader context of contemporary world processes of environmental change and accelerated human mobility Specifically the book contains sections on emergent and increasingly significant or highly innovative issues specific to the Mediterranean often providing alternative perspectives on various pressing issues such as the northward shift of climatic types littoralisation processes and urbanization trends tourism growth problems human exposure to environmental stresses and the boom in information communication technologies As such this book provides new insights into a region that has absorbed the sustained impact of human growth in precarious environments often at the interface of many worlds co existing at various states of development and inter scalar or cross border interrelationships This volume does not cover every aspect of the human and physical geographies of the Mediterranean region but rather addresses contemporary issues of increasing significance to the Mediterranean with an emphasis on emergent and pressing issues as well as new perspectives or methods of approach of special relevance to the Mediterranean The core of contributions to this volume originated from an initiative undertaken by the International Geographical Union IGU Mediterranean Renaissance Program now the Commission on the Mediterranean Basin COMB Most papers are authored by members of the latter Commission and additional papers are included in order to cover more aspects of contemporary Mediterranean geographies

International Residential Mobilities Josefina Dominguez-Mujica, Jennifer McGarrigle, Juan Manuel Parreño-Castellano, 2021-10-04 This book assesses the drivers and impacts of new international residential mobilities by considering a range of mobilities in different countries across the globe from investment amenity and retirement mobilities to those of the new global middle class and the transnational elites It examines the intersection of these mobilities with the increase in the volume of global tourism the advent of the sharing economy and peer to peer platforms and the effects of transnational property investment The consequent transformations are considered in urban environments where tourism pressure coexists with gentrification increasing house prices and processes of social and ethnic segregation By offering a broad perspective based on different case studies the book portrays the contradictory consequences of international residential mobilities both favouring local opportunities for development and disrupting housing markets through the disassociation from local demand As a result this book is a great resource for academics and students in tourism urban and migration studies as well as policy makers and practitioners involved in urban planning social affairs and tourism management

Landscapes in the Eastern Mediterranean between the Future and the Past Ioannis N. Vogiatzakis, Theano S. Terkenli, Maria Gabriella Trovato, Nizar Abu-Jaber, 2020-05-15 Landscapes have long been viewed as multifunctional integrating ecological economic sociocultural historical and aesthetic dimensions Landscape science and public awareness in Europe have been progressing in leaps and bounds The challenges involved in landscape related issues and fields however are multiple and refer to landscape stewardship and protection as well as to the development of comprehensive theoretical and methodological approaches in tandem with public sensitization and participatory governance and in coordination with appropriate top down planning and policy instruments Landscape scale approaches are fundamental to the understanding of past and present cultural evolution and are now considered to be an appropriate spatial framework for the analysis of sustainability Methods and tools of landscape analysis and intervention have also gone a long way since their early development in Europe and the United States Although significant progress has been made there remain many issues which are understudied or not investigated at all at least in a Mediterranean context This Special Issue addresses the application of landscape theory and practice in the Eastern Mediterranean and mainly but not exclusively reports on the outcomes of an international conference held in Jordan in December 2015 with the title Landscapes of Eastern Mediterranean Challenges Opportunities Prospects and Accomplishments The focus of this Special Issue landscapes of the Eastern Mediterranean region thus constitutes a timely area of research interest not only because these landscapes have so far been understudied but also as a rich site of strikingly variegated long standing multicultural human environmental interactions These interactions resting on and taking shape through millennia of continuity in tradition have been striving to adapt to technological advances while currently juggling with manifold and multilayered socioeconomic and climate environmental crises

The Geography of Greece Régis Darques, George Sidiropoulos, Kostas Kalabokidis, 2024-02-22 During the last few years Greece has become a subject of increasing attention worldwide Once praised for its ability to innovate and reform during the EU integration process applauded for its remarkable job in managing the 2004 Olympics the country fell into a financial crisis of unprecedented magnitude in 2008 Much has been said on this matter and amid the morass of information a staggering number of untruths have been disseminated In fact the challenges of vulnerability and the paradigms of adaptation go way beyond finance and economy in Greece Mega fires earthquakes landslides and floods migrations sociopolitical upheavals and armed conflicts generate emergency situations repeatedly Because of its bridging role between natural and social sciences geography can provide insights into the entire breadth of hazardous and chaotic events driving adaptation and change Against all these threats Greece has developed an enhanced resilience capacity The purpose of this book is to help unravel the complexities of a fascinating country beyond clichés This book is intended for students researchers scholars and engineers interested in geography land planning urban studies and environmental management The crises issue intended as a guideline allows widening the audience to include the media governmental and non governmental agencies and the public at large
