Developing a New Curriculum for Adult Learners Michael Carroll, 2007 Developing a New Course for Adult Learners Marguerite Ann Snow, Lía D. Kamhi-Stein, 2006 Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages Inc TESOL introduces Developing a New Course for Adult Learners edited by Marguerite Ann Snow and Lia Kamhi Stein This volume in TESOL's Language Curriculum Development Series presents the stories of teachers curriculum developers and administrators from all over the world who seek to understand adult learners needs and respond to them in creative realistic and effective ways All of the contributors to this volume designed a new course for adult learners and faced the many challenges that come with embarking on such an endeavor In each case the contributors describe the practical and innovative solutions they formulated in developing a course for adults whether it was large scale course development in response to an institutional mandate or a much smaller individualized course initiated by the contributor Each chapter is sure to inspire educators who are about to embark on the adventure of creating a new course for adults Research Anthology on Adult Education and the Development of Lifelong Learners Management Association, Information Resources, 2021-03-19 Whether it is earning a GED a particular skill or technical topic for a career taking classes of interest or even returning to begin a degree program or completing it adult learning encompasses those beyond the traditional university age seeking out education This type of education could be considered non traditional as it goes beyond the typical educational path and develops learners that are self initiated and focused on personal development in the form of gaining some sort of education Essentially it is a voluntary choice of learning throughout life for personal and professional development While there is often a large focus towards K 12 and higher education it is important that research also focuses on the developing trends technologies and techniques for providing adult education along with understanding lifelong learners choices developments and needs The Research Anthology on Adult Education and the Development of Lifelong Learners focuses specifically on adult education and the best practices services and educational environments and methods for both the teaching and learning of adults This spans further into the understanding of what it means to be a lifelong learner and how to develop adults who want to voluntarily contribute to their own development by enhancing their education level or knowledge of certain topics This book is essential for teachers and professors course instructors business professionals school administrators practitioners researchers academicians and students interested in the latest advancements in adult education and lifelong learning Curriculum Building for Adult Learning John R. Verduin, 1980 Too often adult education programs fail because those who set them up lack sources to turn to for guidance in planning curricula now John R Verduin Jr provides a framework a general model educators can use for effective curriculum building Verduin's theoretical approach features a curriculum model consisting of five major elements rationale direction philosophical position outside political forces goals instruction and evaluation Each element receives chapter length treatment The discussion is general and the principles derived are broad enough to apply to any adult learning program Verduin's goal is to provide a framework within which the adult educator can make intelligent decisions In the last chapter however he turns from general discussion to specific application of the models constructs and ideas explored in this book Ideas in this chapter should help those involved in adult education make the transition from a theoretical model to actual curriculum work
