Developing Capacity For Community Governance Of Natural Resources Theory Practice Deborah Wojcik:

Developing Capacity for Community Governance of Natural Resources Theory & Practice Brian Child & Deborah Wojcik, 2014-05 Community based natural resource management CBNRM is a compelling concept that combines community custodianship of natural resources with sustainable development and poverty reduction However there is a large gap between the conceptual promise and actual performance of CBNRM CBNRM is complex and challenging and one of the major challenges is what we call micro governance how to replace the ubiquitous problem of elite capture within communities with genuine participation and equitable benefit sharing This book is for people want to understand and implement CBNRM governance more effectively including graduate students scholars and practitioners It is targeted most specifically at the scholar practitioner who wants to draw upon micro governance theory to know why and how to work with communities to implement sound local institutions the perspectives and resources presented have been developed and tested over many years working with CBNRM communities in southern Africa the book offers convincing evidence for preferring participatory democracy over representational forms of governance and discusses how to manage the scale paradox that economies and ecologies are better managed at larger scales but that larger representational institutions invariably forfeit critical public goods like participation and equitable benefit sharing the book s purpose is to provide the reader with the practical tools to operationalize good governance at the village level in ways that are theoretically sound It provides the reader with theoretical insights and practical lessons about micro governance in the context of CBNRM tools for designing and implementing conceptually rigorous community constitutions that enable communities to govern themselves fairly and effectively and resources for developing the management and monitoring systems necessary to protect these conditions

People, Land, and Water Guy Bessette, 2006 In natural resource management research best practice implies the participation of community members research or development teams and other stakeholders to jointly identify research and development parameters and contribute to decision making Ideally the research or development process itself generates a situation of empowerment in which participants transform their vision and become able to take effective action Used increasingly widely in resource management this process is known as Participatory Development Communication PDC This book presents conceptual and methodological issues r Community Dynamics in Natural Resource Governance Astrid Meilasari-Sugiana, 2010 Adaptive Collaborative Approaches in Natural Resource Governance Hemant Ojha, Andy Hall, Rasheed Sulaiman V, 2012-12-12 The purpose of this book is to showcase a range of approaches that consider learning and collaboration as central processes in agriculture and natural resources governance and management These include four related and overlapping adaptive collaborative approaches Adaptive Collaborative Management Participatory Action Research Social Learning and Innovation Systems Despite these being generated in different institutional domains with somewhat diverse epistemological and policy orientations the authors show that there are common themes among these approaches The book presents a review of various adaptive and collaborative approaches to management developed to cope with the social and biophysical complexity of natural resource systems including case studies from Bangladesh Ecuador Nepal and Zimbabwe The contexts range from farmer field schools to floodplain management and community forestry The authors provide rich accounts of how adaptive collaborative approaches were applied to synergise different types of learning foster collaboration among stakeholders and nurture innovative development processes Through its introduction and conclusion chapters the book establishes a clear theoretical approach and identifies a set of practical methodologies for combining different systems of knowledge in a way that generates and maximizes innovation and the translation of research into practice
