Cement Eclipses Small Interventions In The Big City:

Cement Eclipses Isaac Cordal, 2011 Isaac Cordal is a sculpture artist from London His sculptures take the form of little people sculpted from concrete in real situations Cordal manages to capture a lot of emotion in his vignettes in spite of their lack of detail or colour He is sympathetic toward his little people and we empathise with their situations their leisure time their waiting for buses and their more tragic moments such as accidental death suicide or family funerals His sculptures can be found in gutters on top of buildings and bus shelters in many unusual and unlikely places in the capital This book is the first time his images have been shown in together in one book dedicated to his work many images never seen before Cordal s concrete sculptures are like little magical gifts to the public that only a few lucky people will see and love but so many more will have missed Left to their own devices throughout London what really makes these pieces magical is their placement They bring new meaning to little corners of the urban environment They express something vulnerable but deeply engaging

The Routledge Companion to Urban Imaginaries Christoph Lindner, Miriam Meissner, 2018-09-28 The Routledge Companion to Urban Imaginaries delves into examples of urban imaginaries across multiple media and geographies from new visions of smart eco and resilient cities to urban dystopias in popular culture from architectural renderings of starchitecture and luxury living to performative activism for new spatial justice and from speculative experiments in urban planning fiction and photography to augmented urban realities in crowd mapping and mobile apps The volume brings various global perspectives together and into close dialogue to offer a broad interdisciplinary and critical overview of the current state of research on urban imaginaries Questioning the politics of urban imagination the companion gives particular attention to the role that urban imaginaries play in shaping the future of urban societies communities and built environments Throughout the companion issues of power resistance and uneven geographical development remain central Adopting a transnational perspective the volume challenges research on urban imaginaries from the perspective of globalization and postcolonial studies inviting critical reconsiderations of urbanism in its diverse current forms and definitions In the process the companion explores issues of Western centrism in urban research and design and accommodates current attempts to radically rethink urban form and experience This is an essential resource for scholars and graduate researchers in the fields of urban planning and architecture art media and cultural studies film visual and literary studies sociology and political science geography and anthropology

Cities Interrupted Shirley Jordan, Christoph Lindner, 2016-02-25 Cities Interrupted explores the potential of visual culture in the form of photography film performance architecture urban design and mixed media to strategically interrupt processes of globalization in contemporary urban spaces Looking at cities such as Amsterdam Beijing Doha London New York and Paris the book brings together original essays to reveal how the concept of interruption in global cities enables new understanding of the forms of space experience and community that are emerging in today s rapidly transforming urban environments The idea of interruption addressed in this book refers to deliberate interventions in the spaces and communities of contemporary cities interventions that seek to disrupt or destabilize the experience of everyday urban life through creative practice Interruption is used as an analytic and conceptual tool to challenge and explore alternatives to the narratives of speed hyper mobility rapid growth and incessant exchange and flow that have dominated critical thinking on global cities Bringing art and creative practice into the centre of discussions about the future of cities alongside discussions of development design justice health sustainability technology and citizenship this book is essential reading for anyone working at the intersections of a range of urban cultural and visual fields including urban studies urban design and architecture visual studies cultural studies media studies art history and social and cultural geography Invented Emergency, for Small Cities & Big Towns Broken City Lab, 2013 Broken City Lab is an artist led interdisciplinary collective and non profit organization working to explore and unfold curiosities around locality infrastructures education and creative practice leading towards civic change Our projects events workshops installations and interventions offer an injection of disruptive creativity into a situation surface place or community These projects aim to connect various disciplines through research and social practice generating works and interventionist tactics that adjust critique annotate and re imagine the cities that we encounter from Broken City Lab webpage
